EDUCATION IN DIXIE

Kathleen Broeder, of the Dixie State University Special Collections Department will be our guest speaker.

Woodward School was constructed in 1898 and used as school until just a few years ago. It was named after George Woodward, who donated $3000 for materials to build it.

Fun Fact: In 1890, the $2.50 per term (typically two to three months) tuition was abolished as free public schools were established. The four St. George school districts were combined into one, and the school term was lengthened.
