NAME DIXIE COLLEGE LIBRARY.

So This Is Dixie

So this is Dixie! Well no wonder then
She's lauded for her grandeur far and wide,
Methinks my eyes have ne'er before beheld
Such circlement of undulating crests
As marks the skyline of this valley here,
Filled with such wilderness of hills and vales,
Cluttered together in a jumbled mass,
Like playthings left, when play is ceased, on the floor.
Perhaps when God called out, "Come, let's make man,"
His helpers, in the midst of pleasant game
With these, just dropped them as they stand.
I hear the whispered story these would tell,
"We grew as you grow, no two days the same,
Each moment sees us alter, countless years
Of steady toil has made us what we are."

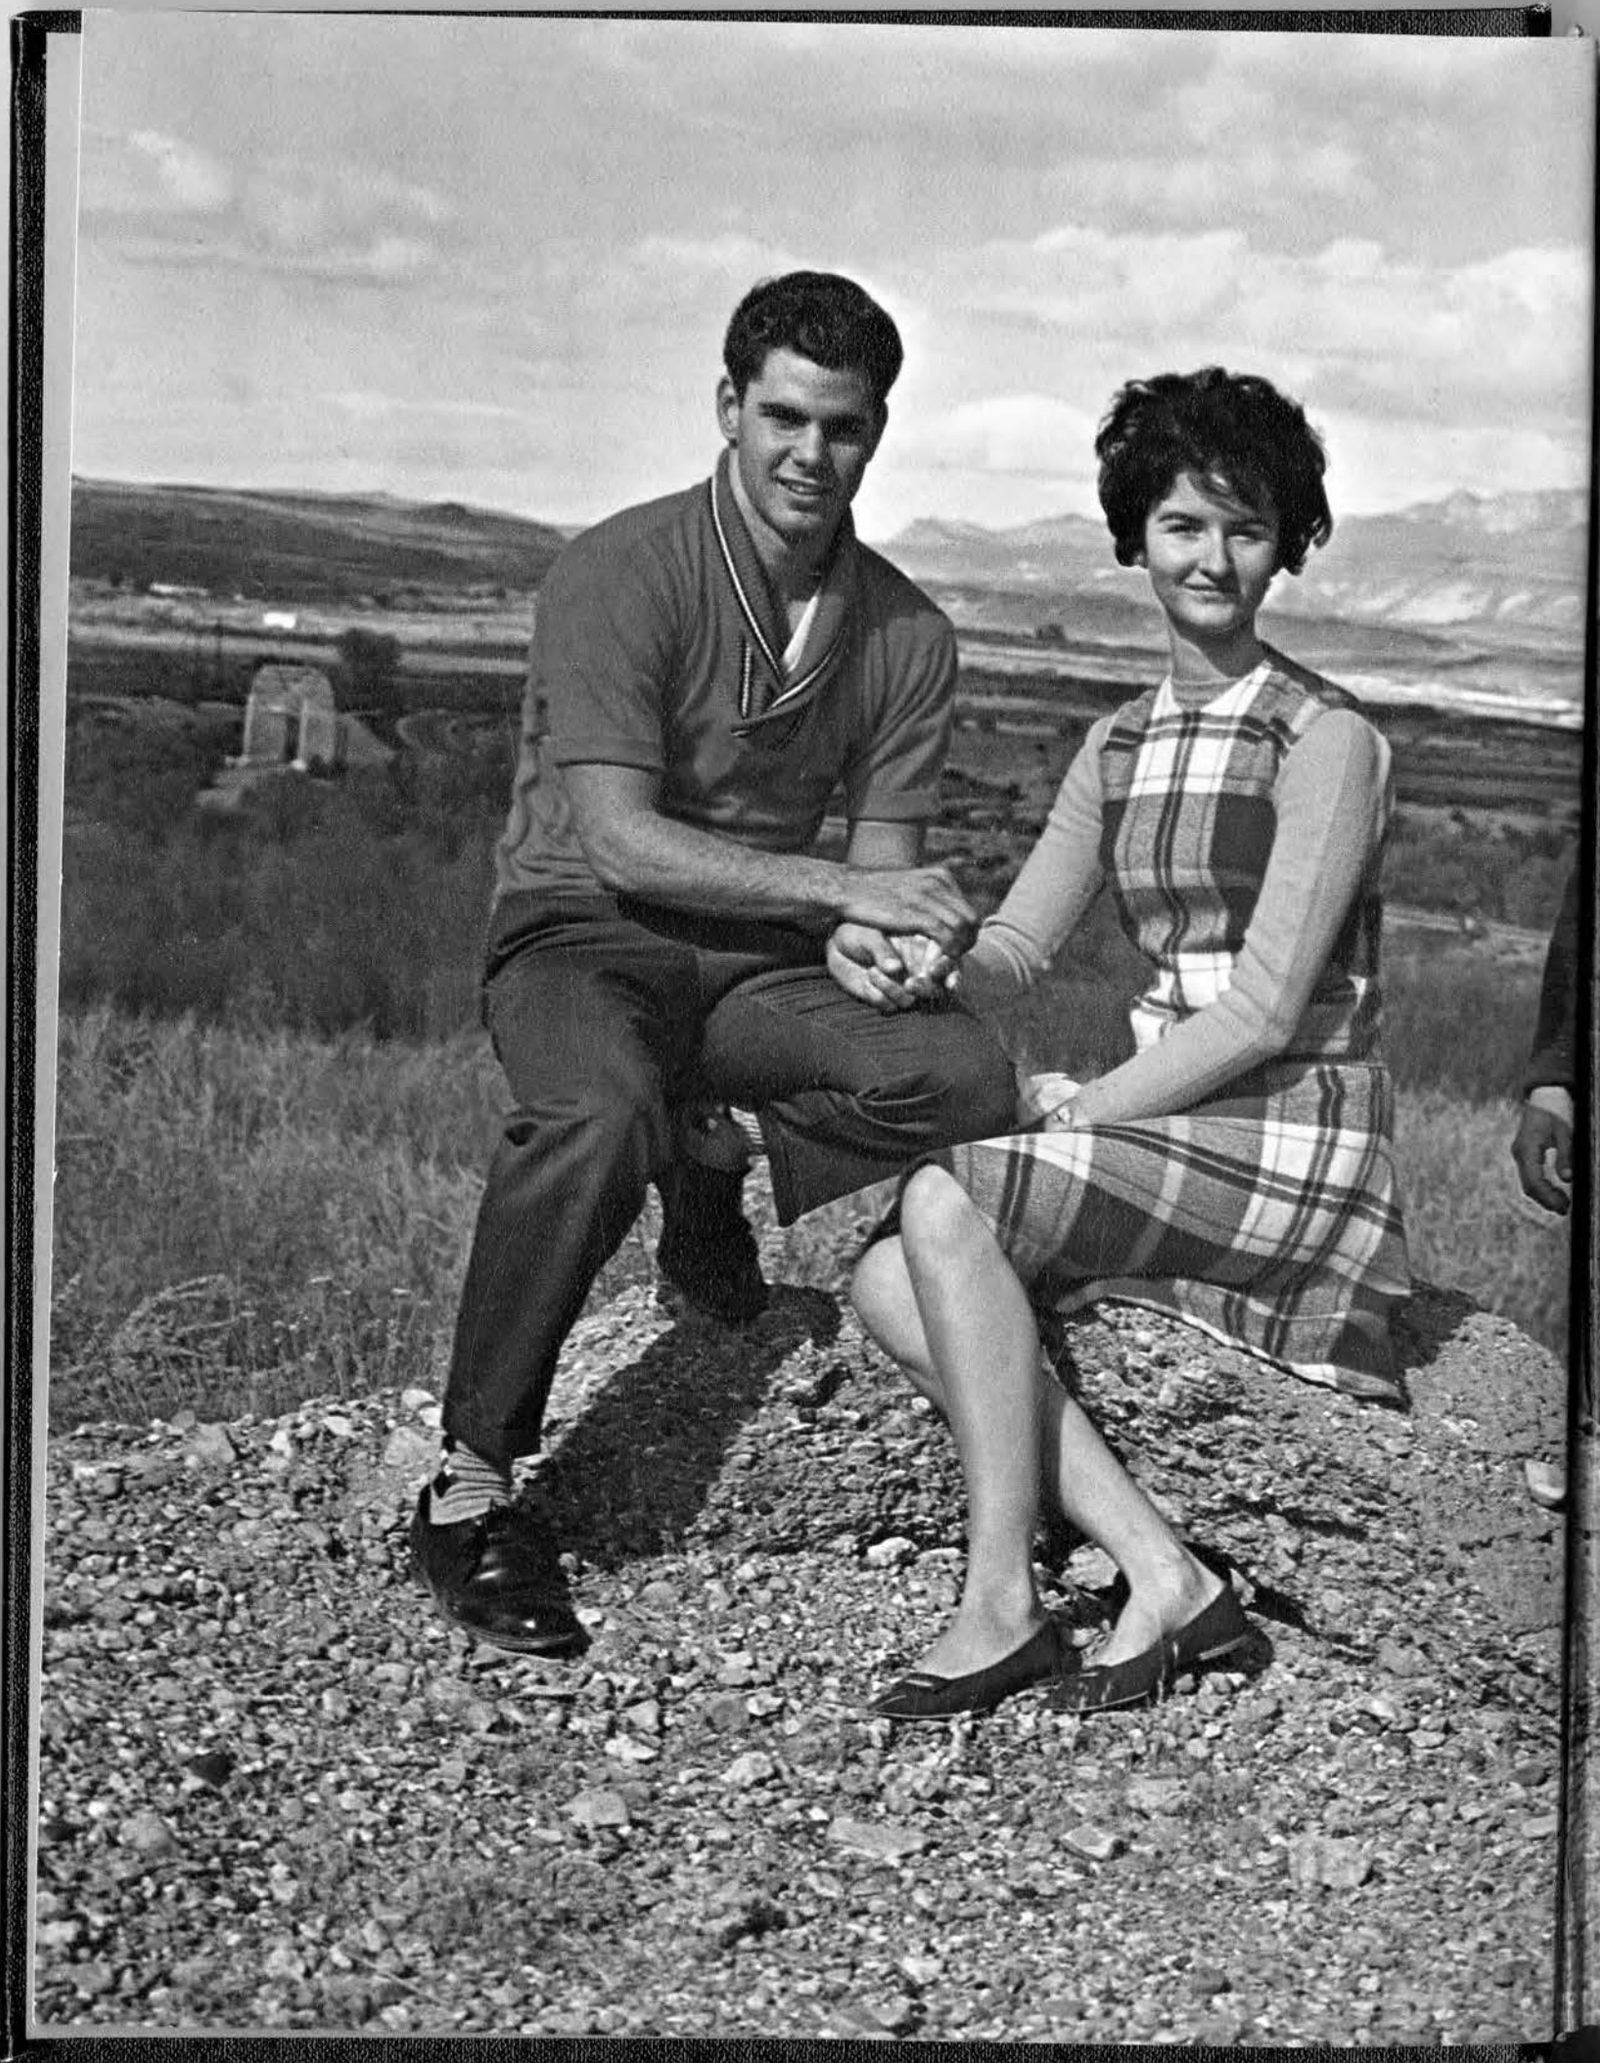

So this is Dixie—stern play-ground of men,
All bathed in old Arabia's mistiness,
Drawn like a cloak to shield it from our gaze.
Sunset alone has power to draw aside
The purple veil, and on the valley's cheeks
Place his warm kiss, while she, aglow with love,
Or silly vanity, well pleased with his caress,
Smiles back in pink and lavendar and blue,
All streaked with gold, to match the sunset sky.

So this is Dixie! She is guarded well
By such a monarch as yon mountain there,
To shield against invasion from the north,
And bend o'er all his stern protectorate.
How—sentineled as this—how can it be
That his Satanic majesty could place
His long, black mountain-steed, all saddled, there,
Ready for Satan to enthrone himself,
And sally forth on evil errand bent,
When night comes down to cover his caprice?
Perhaps he stole in while the king was crowned,
When the snow fairies gently hovered near,
And on his brow placed dazzling wreaths of snow,
—Fit crown for coronation of such King—
And he in vanity forgot to guard.

So this is Dixie! And the Virgin, maidenlike,
Silent and with soft tread, glides on her way,
Muttering to herself,
"I'll yet be claimed,
And made the mother of Prosperity,
Which lies in store for those who work and wait."
She passes 'round the point and out of sight,
Still chanting hopefully this same refrain
That those along her banks may hear and heed.

So this is Dixie! See the mountains there,
Bold-faced against the distant blue of those.
And here the paint-pot must have been upset
And spilled the black upon the white in streaks;
And there's a ridge, in mixed uncertainty,
Red, careless-tossed, and jagged, yet motionless;
And far beyond old Steamboat anchored stays,
Anxious to plow her way across the sands,
Yet stayed forever, save when wind and rain
Shall tear her down by atoms; and out there
All distant, shaded, blue and mist; and town,
And temple steeple, glistening in the sun;
And man-made fields and marks of human toil;
All this is Dixie, broad and vast and grand,
Fit setting for yon "D," with all it means,
Shining like beacon light through all of this,
To tell the world 'tis Dixie that we love.

Our Golden Year

'61-62'

Dedication

We dedicate this book to you, our youth, our golden age. Each of you has special memories . . . of dances, dorm parties, D-Day, tests . . . things that combine to make a school year complete. We do not say good-bye with regret, for we have shared many wonderful experiences and met many warm, friendly, and unforgettable people. This is a year that will be remembered and cherished forever, a year that has helped us prepare for a bright and happy future.

The Dixie Staff Presents:

The Dixie of 1962: a story of a golden year on a growing campus. It is our wish to preserve for each student a vivid picture of the activities that have formed a major part of our lives during the past year.

This year closes with a new world: the building we have done on the accomplishments of the past... the "D", the Leadership Conferences, the music and dramatic departments . . . has been a re-creation and a growth. The school is richer and the year more golden because of the attainments of the past and present.

The New. . .

a campus of a "modern era"

The center of interest has shifted from the serenity and calm of the old, landscaped focal point to the new and functional buildings on the East campus that stand almost defiant, naked amid the asphalt parking lots. It is the hope of Dixie that the entire campus will soon be situated here.

. . . Fine Arts Center

Administration

WASHINGTON COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION — Left to Right: Carroll Hinton, Heber Hirschi, Pres. of Board 62; Sheldon B. Johnson, Pres. of Board 61; Leon Jennings, and Maeser Terry.

COUNTY ADMINISTRATIVE PERSONNEL — Ronald McArthur, Clerk-Treasurer; Maurice Nuttall, Director Sec. Ed.; T. LaVoy Esplin, Supt.

These capable county leaders use skillful management and give helpful advice in setting the policy and rulings for the high school.

This was a year of retrospect, when as an institution we expressed our gratitude to all those who made our 50th anniversary possible. It was also a year in which we stood upon the solid foundations which they laid and looked optimistically ahead to the newness of tomorrow.

In our gratitude and in our optimism, it is also important that we have been fully aware of, and have taken full advantage of, the golden moments of each day. From the standpoint of the each of you, the equipment, the buildings, and the teachers were important only when you used your time here in activities which made you a better person. . . . These are the truly golden days. If there have been enough of them, the year has been a golden one, not just for the college . . . it has also been a golden year for you.

Today, as in the past, Dixie College is active in community affairs.

A fusion of our Rebel flag, the Rebels, our student officers, and our coveted axe provided Dixie with a Golden Year of student government and school spirit.

Student Government

Student Body President

John Sanders . . .

student body president of Dixie, had not intended to run for office until the election assembly. From that time on John has worked hard as Dixie's highest office holder. His experience elsewhere led John to effect an expansion of the activities of the student administrations. This helped to meet the needs of the students intellectually and culturally, as well as socially.

Doug Hafen, Parliamentarian, shows Margaret Fawson, Pep Chairman, and Robert Jepson, Publicity Chairman, some pointers on governmental procedure.

These students carried out their duties and aided student activities and business with a vigor that created a great deal of school spirit.

Appointive Officers

Under the leadership of ASB President John Sanders, the student council carried out the necessary legislation for the student body.

Representing the student organizations, the IOC leaders kept student life on campus organized and interesting. They were a credit to the student body of Dixie.

IOC

Student Council

AMS

The AMS activities included the memorable chariot races, the Rebel Awards Night, the tug-o-war and other activities during Boy's Week, and intramurals. This committee, representing the male student body at Dixie, contributed much to the social life on campus.

AWS

The AWS represents all women on the Dixie campus. They sponsored many activities during Girls' Week . . . an assembly, a dance, a fashion show, and a banquet. The annual Get Acquainted Tea and the Fathers and Daughters Night were also highlights of the AWS roster.

"On the Go" from September to June, the students planned parties and decorated for dances, making Dixie's social life a Golden Year of activities.

1944 — Earl J. Bleak is leading the Dixie College Band at a football game.

ACTIVITIES

The Orientation Assembly and the first "peek" into the buildings were major "firsts."

The studentbody president gives the students important "do's" and "don'ts."

How "D" Week...

The first party of the year held under the "D," the opening dance, and the girls' tea started the year off in the right way.

It's never "all work and no play" at Dixie!

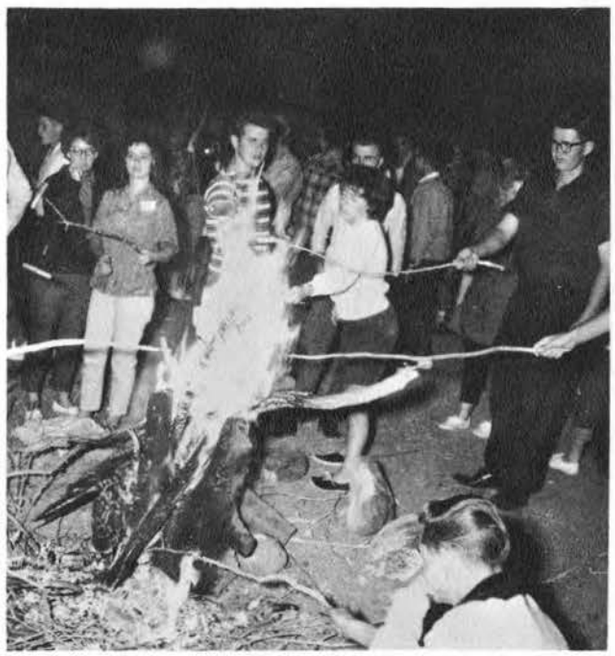

Unlimited Fun...

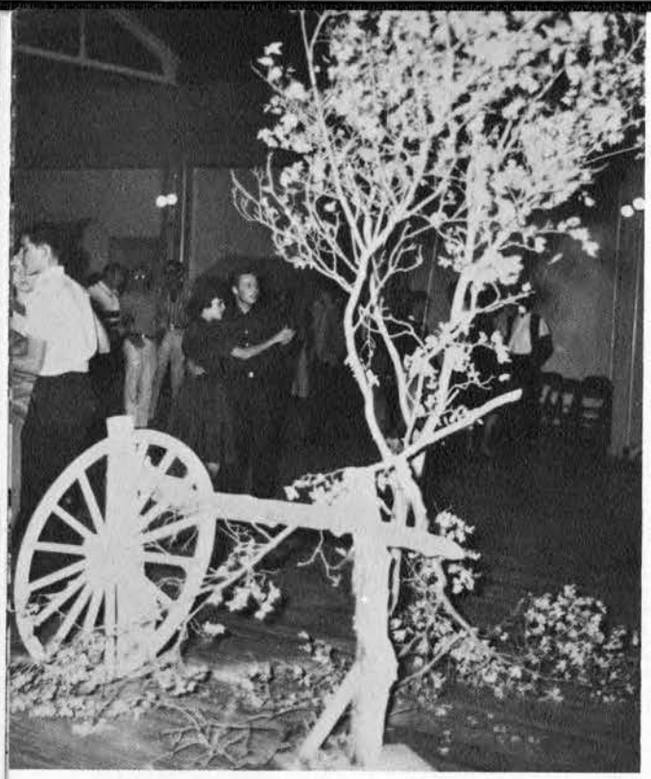

Registration was a long and hard process for the beginning freshmen.

The fire was hot and the hot dogs were burned, but oh, what fun!

The annual welcoming tea was sponsored by the Faculty Women.

Cutting capers at the opening dance.

Walkin', talkin' nightmares!

The unforgettable parties at Dixie . . . the sorghumlappers parties, the class parties, the "Bean Bashes," the dorm parties . . .

Parties Are "Best" At Dixie

Reach for the stars!

Sorghum-lappers lap it up.

LeGrand and Karen are "Harvest Time" royalty.

This isn't a backward school!

Lil Abner and Daisy Mae at Dixie are Phil Castle and Dixie Heaton.

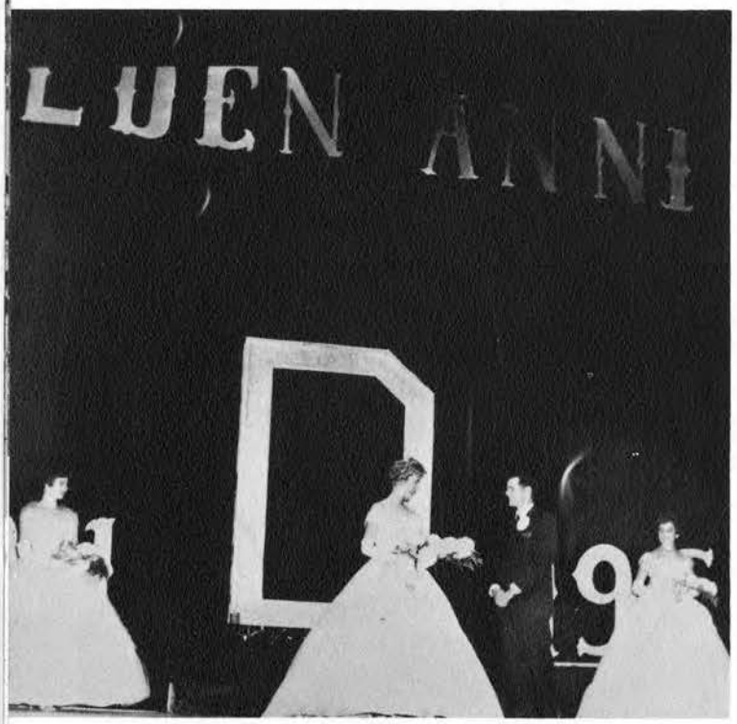

Harvest King and Queen candidates.

Dwight's a "master" at strummin' Christmas carols.

The theme "Golden Year" was carried out in this year's Homecoming. The parade, the assembly, the game, and the dance were outstanding activities.

The regal queen and her attendants.

The entertainment at the "Dixie Highlights" was memorable.

"The Golden Year"

HOMECOMING COMMITTEE — Dixie Heaton, Mary Ann Savage, Clark Whitehead, GENERAL CHAIRMAN — Diane Schmutz, Lolly Thomas, Peggy Hawkins, Leona Brooks.

The Flag is an important part of Dixie.

Joan sings to her "two sisters."

Grand prize . . . Lambda Delta Sigma.

The Lambda Delta Sigma float took the grand prize, and the Sophomore class also rated honors with their float.

. . . and she had beautiful long hair clear down to the floor . . .

"She's only a bird in a guilded cage."

Everything from beatniks to children appeared on the Dixie Stages during Friday assemblies.

Jump! Dixie jump!

Assemblies

. . . interesting and entertaining

Nikita and the beatniks.

Lambda Delt sings Christmas Carols.

The officers and members of clubs and organizations worked hard to provide an hour of interesting entertainment for all Dixie students.

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! . . .

The assemblies provided entertainment and opportunities to prove individual talents.

Bill's turkey saved again!

The Freshman competitive assembly was a creative and imaginative satire on the fast pace of modern life.

Abe, are you sea sick?

It was this long.

Competitive Assemblies

The "Little People" have landed!

The winning Sophomore assembly was musically and comically original in its satire on "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Are they earth people?

It ain't necessarily so!

The Senior competitive assembly was cleverly written and executed. In the end, the villagers discovered that "it ain't necessarily so."

My hero?

The "Old Woman in the Shoe" found life a drudgery in the Junior competitive assembly. Despite the many conflicts, love conquered all.

HONORS

The Coeds of the Month were chosen for their scholastic achievements, contributions to school affairs, and participation in community activities.

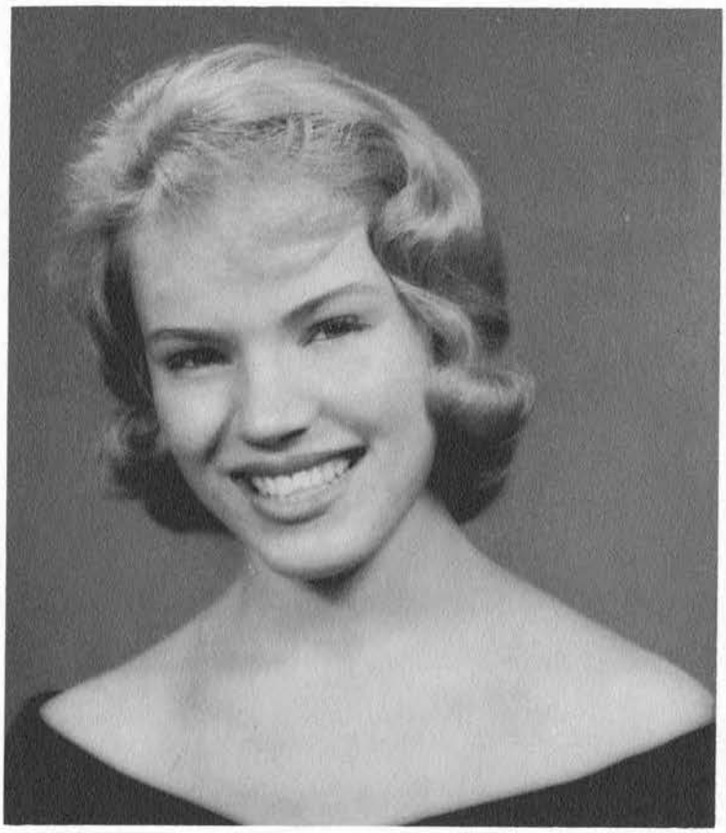

Coeds of the Month

"D" Day Queen Mary Ann Savage was coed for November. She contributed a great service to the school scholastically; as a member of the homecoming committee; and as the Sophomore Class Vice President. She was chosen Scholar of the Year and Personality of the Year during her freshman year.

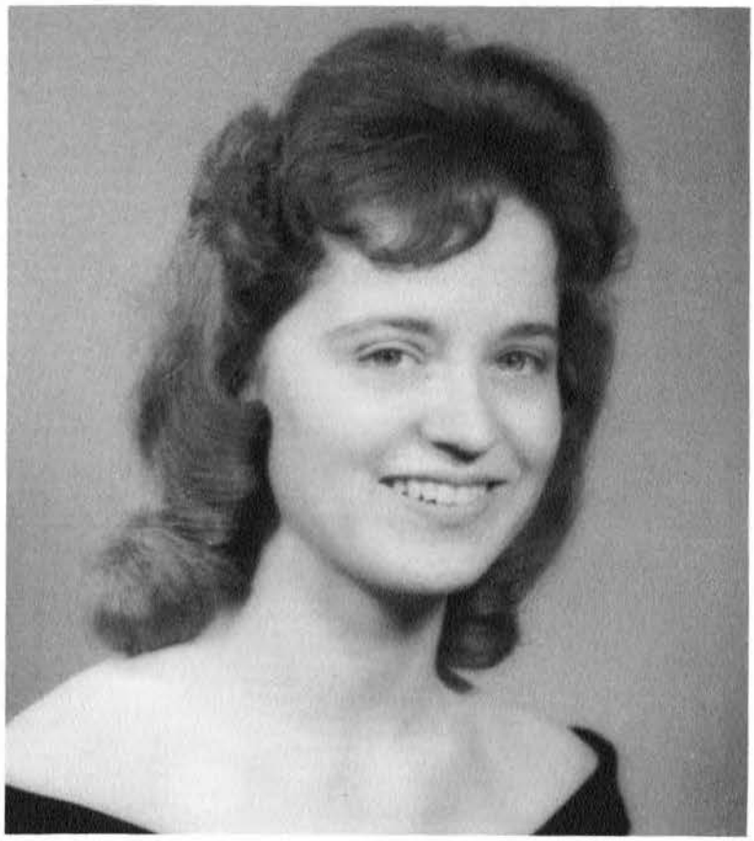

Joan Esplin, talented actress, writer and dancer was chosen as coed for January. She excelled in drama productions; served as president of Delta Psi Omega her freshman year; was the editor of the Southern Quill; and was Commissioner of Amusements for the Sophomore Class.

The coed for the month of December was Margaret Fawson, president of Lambda Delta Sigma, and Pep Chairman. She was a candidate for "D" Day Queen, and she served as Sweetheart Queen and Yearbook Editor her freshman year.

Talented Ramona McArthur was chosen as coed for March. She has contributed much to the school musically. She participated actively in Lambda Delta Sigma, and she was a candidate for "D" Queen.

Coed for the month of April was Karen Faldmo, A.W.S. President. Karen worked hard in this office promoting dances and activities. This vivacious brunette was also active in the L. D. S. College Ward.

Jack Seal, elected by the coeds of Dixie College as their Most Preferred Man.

Most Preferred Man

Cheerleader Dixie Heaton was chosen as coed for February and as Coed of the Year. She served as class commissioner of amusements during both years at Dixie, and she has helped with floats, programs, and dances.

A dream come true for Dixie!

Friday 13, 1962 was an unlucky day for some, but Dixie students remember it as the day the ground was broken for the new cafeteria and men's dormitory on the East campus. Car caravans, ceremonies, and vigorous celebrating marked it as a memorable day at Dixie.

Ground Breaking Ceremony

Ground-breaking ceremonies were attended by state and local dignitaries.

The '62 campaigns at Dixie were the biggest and best ever. With the "Headley Hunters" vs. the "Swamplanders," life at Dixie was full of tension and excitement for one week while the two parties battled for top offices.

What is this thing called snow?

Dixie's campus was the scene of a variety of curricular events. Students rushed to the lounge between classes, noontime and after school. New fads came and went, and with each day of school came new studies, friends, meetings, and new experiences, all of which will be remembered as our "campus memories."

So This Is Dixie

So this is Dixie! Well no wonder then
She's lauded for her grandeur far and wide,
Methinks my eyes have ne'er before beheld
Such circlement of undulating crests
As marks the skyline of this valley here,
Filled with such wilderness of hills and vales,
Cluttered together in a jumbled mass,
Like playthings left, when play is ceased, on the floor.
Perhaps when God called out, "Come, let's make man,"
His helpers, in the midst of pleasant game
With these, just dropped them as they stand.
I hear the whispered story these would tell,
"We grew as you grow, no two days the same,
Each moment sees us alter, countless years
Of steady toil has made us what we are."

So this is Dixie—stern play-ground of men,
All bathed in old Arabia's mistiness,
Drawn like a cloak to shield it from our gaze.
Sunset alone has power to draw aside
The purple veil, and on the valley's cheeks
Place his warm kiss, while she, aglow with love,
Or silly vanity, well pleased with his caress,
Smiles back in pink and lavendar and blue,
All streaked with gold, to match the sunset sky.

So this is Dixie! She is guarded well
By such a monarch as yon mountain there,
To shield against invasion from the north,
And bend o'er all his stern protectorate.
How—sentineled as this—how can it be
That his Satanic majesty could place
His long, black mountain-steed, all saddled, there,
Ready for Satan to enthrone himself,
And sally forth on evil errand bent,
When night comes down to cover his caprice?
Perhaps he stole in while the king was crowned,
When the snow fairies gently hovered near,
And on his brow placed dazzling wreaths of snow,
—Fit crown for coronation of such King—
And he in vanity forgot to guard.

So this is Dixie! And the Virgin, maidenlike,
Silent and with soft tread, glides on her way,
Muttering to herself,
"I'll yet be claimed,
And made the mother of Prosperity,
Which lies in store for those who work and wait."
She passes 'round the point and out of sight,
Still chanting hopefully this same refrain
That those along her banks may hear and heed.

So this is Dixie! See the mountains there,
Bold-faced against the distant blue of those.
And here the paint-pot must have been upset
And spilled the black upon the white in streaks;
And there's a ridge, in mixed uncertainty,
Red, careless-tossed, and jagged, yet motionless;
And far beyond old Steamboat anchored stays,
Anxious to plow her way across the sands,
Yet stayed forever, save when wind and rain
Shall tear her down by atoms; and out there
All distant, shaded, blue and mist; and town,
And temple steeple, glistening in the sun;
And man-made fields and marks of human toil;
All this is Dixie, broad and vast and grand,
Fit setting for yon "D," with all it means,
Shining like beacon light through all of this,
To tell the world 'tis Dixie that we love.
