Lloyd and LaNorma Sandberg

Lloyd and LaNorma Sandberg are true old-time Hurricane people. It did take a little while to get the Dixie Flyer Blue out of LaNorma, but after 60 plus years, she's a true red and black fan.

Lloyd was born in Hurricane in 1921, and he has never really lived anywhere else. He was born and raised on south Main Street and helped in his father's store, Sandberg's Mercantile. Lloyd's father was the mayor of Hurricane, and his great-grandfather was Erastus Snow, who built the Hurricane Hill. Lloyd had one brother, Garth, who later ran the store, and a sister, Elaine, who taught home economics at Hurricane High School. As a teenager, Lloyd played basketball (coached by Walt Brooks), and sang in the operetta, traveled to Canada with the Future Farmers of America, and did anything else he was asked to do.

After high school, Lloyd attended Dixie College. He later went on a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day saints to the Eastern States Mission. While there he sang in a missionary quartet. When Lloyd returned home, he was drafted into the army and served for two years in New Guinea, where he got malaria. When World War II was over he returned home and started dating LaNorma Seegriff.

LaNorma grew up in St George on Flood Street in a little house a neighbor called the "cracker box house". She had 2 sisters and 5 brothers and worked for JC Penney's before she got married. During the war, when there were rations on many things, she always bought towels when they came in. She bought so many they were still selling those towels 25 years later. LaNorma has always been fun-loving, and when asked what
