Arizona Territory:

Post Offices & Postmasters

by JOHN and LILLIAN THEOBALD

THE HISTORY OF THE POSTAL SERVICE and postal employees in Arizona Territory from 1863 to 1912, with a bonus chapter on pre-Territorial mail service added; including the first published directory of every known postmaster and post office in Territorial Arizona; richly illustrated with pioneer postmasters and post offices; plus a generous sampling of territorial cancellations from the Theobald Collection; with contemporary newspaper items that recall the flavor of the times. A book for the history student, for the philatelist, for the descendants of the pioneers of mail service in Arizona.

"... One of the truly exciting and carefully edited records of a most colorful era of Arizona's history . . . well indexed and arranged . . ."

Arizona Pageant

A Short History of the 48th State

by MADELINE FERRIN PARÉ

WITH THE COLLABORATION OF
BERT M. FIREMAN

A CAPTIVATING NARRATIVE of Arizona's development from the time of Coronado through the 1964 elections. Readable yet deeply researched, the book emphasizes the significance of economic forces, (i.e., mining, irrigation, and railroads) in the building of Arizona, while minimizing the role of badmen and gunfighters. Many legends and errors in Arizona history corrected. Includes excellent maps from Rufus K. Wyllys Arizona: The History of a Frontier State. Used in history classes at University of Arizona, Phoenix College, Tucson and Phoenix high schools, etc.

"... The authors' . . . lively prose makes very pleasant reading . . . These two scholars have produced the best single-volume history of the state since Wyllys . . . Intended for adult Arizonans and general reading public, including tourists and students. For all three it is recommended reading . . ."

Be It Enacted:

The Creation of the Territory of Arizona

by B. SACKS, M.D.

THE OUTSTANDING EXPERT on the early Territorial history of Arizona tells for the first time the full and surprising story of Arizona's struggle for Territorial status. Doctor Sacks discloses the full cast of players and their motives; he tells how Arizona had become part of the Confederacy before it was brought into the Union; he reveals how Abraham Lincoln's birth in Kentucky may have influenced the destiny of Arizona. Illustrated with more than 40 facsimiles of documents relating to the Territorial issue, including a complete reprint of the Constitution and Schedule of the Provisional Government of 1860.

"... Sack's study is the most scholarly thorough account of the founding of Arizona Territory ever published."

Medicine In Territorial Arizona

by FRANCES E. QUEBBEMAN

REVEALING ACCOUNT of doctors and medical practice from the time of the Spanish surgeon and Indian shaman until 1912. Extensive research by the author, a Commander (ret.), Nurse Corps, U.S. Navy, discloses the frontier triumph over surgical challenges and complications, hazards of the health prospector, Arizona's role as a sanatorium, the territorial mental health problem, the advancement of new theories of microbes and mosquitoes, and establishment of the Arizona Medical Association. Biographical notes on 1,200 practicing physicians 1858-1912 (including a few quacks). Eighty illustrations, including facsimiles of earliest published reports of Arizona medicine. Appendix includes first medical examination given Arizona doctors in 1897. A significant achievement in social-economic history in the West.

Lancers For The King

A Study of the Frontier Military System of Northern New Spain, with a Translation of the Royal Regulations of 1772.

by SIDNEY B. BRINCKERHOFF
and ODIE B. FAULK

TWO YOUNG AUTHORS bring to American history a revealing analysis of the role of presidios built by the Spanish in a cordon reaching from the Colorado River almost to the Gulf of Mexico, showing that Spain's military failure on the northern frontier stemmed from poor training, inadequate equipment, and official indifference to the lot of the common soldier in the Interior Provinces. More than 30 illustrations show arms and equipment used by Spanish and Mexico soldiers. Page-by-page Spanish-English comparison of the Royal Regulations.

"... [The regulations] are detailed and explicit . . . The book is most attractive, a collector's item."

—THE HISPANIC AMERICAN
HISTORICAL REVIEW

"The present book serves a very useful purpose . . . as a source book for contemporary military documentation, and a study of the dress, arms and equipment of a fascinating phase of our military heritage."

Father Kino In Arizona

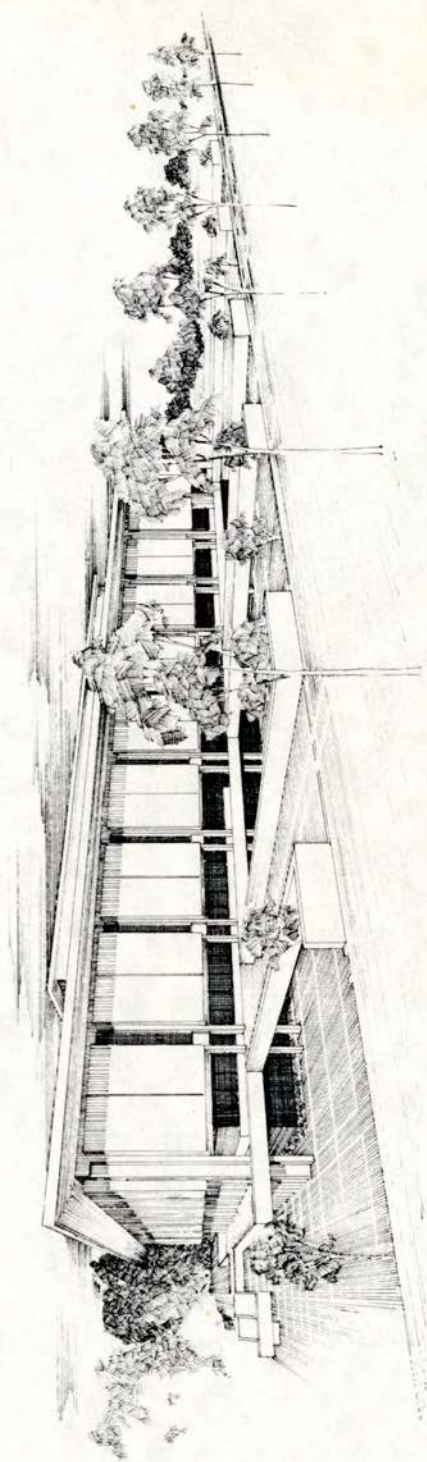

by FAY JACKSON SMITH,
and FRANCIS FOX, S.J.

FIRST ENGLISH PUBLICATION of Kino's little-known Relacion Diaria, his only extant day-to-day diary, plotting his journey to find the mouth of the Colorado River in 1698. Includes new details and explanation of his Arizona ministry, with headquarters at Guevavi—not San Xavier. Plus a supplemental bibliography that identifies the growing literature on the noted Jesuit whose bronze statue was placed in National Statuary Hall in 1965. Original maps by Don Bufkin. Another graphic arts hallmark of the Arizona Historical Foundation.

HISTORIC PRESERVATION NEWS

Gary D. Forbush, Preservation Officer

Number 4

Remember . . .

. . . the Wasatch Stake Tabernacle in Heber City and how hard you fought to preserve it? The Wasatch Historical Society which has continued to carry the ball is delighted to report that your efforts were not in vain.

The building, which was recently listed on the National Register of Historic Places, served well this summer as the Wasatch Pioneer Playhouse. Mrs. Calvin L. Rampton was present opening night for the installation of the official marker and to present the certificate formally designating the site as a National Register Place.

The theatrical group, comprised of energetic and talented young people, presented three light musicals, "The Wisdom Tree," "The Red Plush Parlor," and "Finnian's Rainbow." Performances were held Wednesday through Saturday with enough public response to hopefully encourage the continuation of the Playhouse next summer.

Heritage Foundation Plans Ogden Fete

The Bertha Eccles Community Art Center in Ogden is the site chosen for this year's Heritage Day activities on Saturday, October 9, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Calvin L. Rampton, official hostess, will open an exhibit of Utah designers and craftsmen at the center, and there will be guided tours of the building which was recently named a National Historic Place.

The Utah Heritage Foundation is also planning a self-guided walking tour of the Eccles Center neighborhood.

Isaac Pullman Home Placed on Register

Recently placed on the State Register of Historic Sites, this lovely stone home, built c. 1886, is scheduled for restoration by its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylyn Caldwell. Mr. Caldwell is provost, University of Pacific. Austin E. Fife believes that the mason of this home, Andrew McCombs, represents a rare American influence in rock house construction in Cache Valley, where emigrant masons and styles from Britain and Scandinavia seem to predominate. Jeff Simmonds, special collections librarian at Utah State University, researched and documented the house for presentation to the Review Committee.

"A people that takes no pride in the accomplishment of their remote ancestors will probably produce nothing worthy of recollection by their remote descendants."

Lord Macaulay

Dr. Fife Addresses Paris Meeting

Austin E. Fife, professor at Utah State University in Logan, gave a paper on the stone houses of northern Utah in Paris, France, on August 25. The occasion was the First International Congress for European Ethnology under the sponsorship of the International Society for Ethnology and Folklore, of which Dr. Fife is a chapter member.

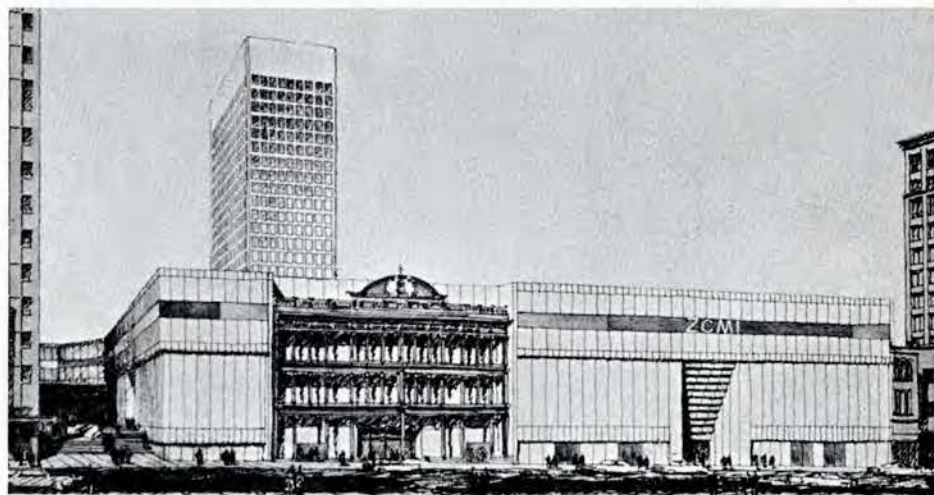

The paper was presented in the section of folk architecture and was illustrated with photographs taken by himself and by Professor H. Reuben Reynolds. It was given in French, with simultaneous translation into English, German, and Russian.

Dr. Fife is a past vice-president and fellow of the American Folklore Society, and a fellow of the Utah Historical Society. Recently he served as chairman of a Utah Heritage Foundation committee which studied the stone houses of northern Utah. Dr. Fife's presentation of these houses to the Governor's Historic and Cultural Sites Review Committee and his recommendations for listing on the State Register of Historic Sites have been most helpful and will serve as a continuing guide for the committee.

Take a Last Look

The facade of ZCMI, a National Register Place, built in sections beginning in 1876, will be replaced with a contemporary facade which frames a replica of the old cast iron front as it appeared in 1880. Zions Securities Corporation representatives state that not much of the original facade remains and that the parts that might be original are too deteriorated to retain. They have suggested a meeting be held with the Historical Society, Utah Heritage Foundation, and American Institute of Architects to investigate the situation and propose a solution.

GENERAL

The European Discovery of America: The Northern Voyages, A.D. 500-1600

SAMUEL ELIOT MORISON. 1971. 736 pp. 210 illus. 17 maps. 501377-8 $15.00t

A Pulitzer-Prize winning historian presents a comprehensive and gripping account of all voyages across the North Atlantic to the New World before 1600. The list of intrepid mariners includes all the great explorers of northern seas, from Leif Ericson to Sir Walter Raleigh, as well as lesser-known names such as Gomez and Grenville. The author shows the drama of their achievement to be as significant in that day as the astronauts' journeys are in our own, and he offers a treasure of information about early sailing ships, shipboard life, and navigation and fishing techniques. Extensive notes and new maps especially compiled by the author illuminate this still imperfectly documented period of American history.

The Growth of the American Republic Sixth Edition

SAMUEL ELIOT MORISON, HENRY STEELE COMMAGER, and WILLIAM E. LEUCHTENBURG, Columbia University. 1969. Vol. I. 960 pp. 64 illus., 27 maps. 500995-9 $9.95c. Vol. II. 936 pp. 75 illus., 28 maps. 500996-7 $9.95c. Two vols., boxed, 500029-3 $35.00t

A leader in its field for over four decades. The account provides a balanced treatment of the varied aspects of American life including social, cultural, and intellectual endeavors as well as political and military history. Substantial new materials and interpretations cover many topics, among them: the age of Jackson; slavery and Reconstruction; the Progressive era; political party history and voting behavior; the Great Depression and the New Deal; and the civil rights revolution of the past two decades. Volume I extends from pre-Columbian America to the Reconstruction period. Volume II spans the years from 1877 to the present.

The Oxford History of the American People

SAMUEL ELIOT MORISON. 1965. 1,178 pp. 32 pp. illus., 27 maps. 500030-7 Trade ed. $15.00t. 500997-5 College ed. $10.00c

A rich and brilliant synthesis of American history in a single volume, this work is notable for its wide-sweeping view, its masterful style, and interpretive personal approach. Admiral Morison records the varied aspects of American life from pre-colonial times through President Kennedy's administration in a forceful narrative that gives the reader a clear sense of the nation's past as it relates to the present.

The Growth of American Politics: A Modern Reader

FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California, Los Angeles; PAUL GOODMAN, University of California, Davis; and ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College, eds. 1972. 1,088 pp. Volume I: Through Reconstruction. 501546-0 Cloth $12.50t. 501545-2 Paper $3.95c. Volume II: Since the Civil War. 501548-7 Cloth $12.50t. 501547-9 Paper $3.95c

Containing forty-four essays by historians and political scientists, from Charles A. Beard and Frederick Jackson Turner to Eric F. Goldman and John P. Roche, this text is a broad sampling of contemporary thought on the development and functioning of our political system. The collection develops such themes as the class basis of political behavior, party politics, voting trends, ideology, and cultural beliefs.

Readings in American Political History

FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California, Los Angeles; PAUL GOODMAN, University of California, Davis; and ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College, eds. 1972. 640 pp. 501549-5 Paper $3.95c

Twenty-three essays from the editors' two-volume work, The Growth of American Politics, are presented in this collection.

American Urban History:
An Interpretive Reader with Commentaries
Second Edition

ALEXANDER B. CALLOW, JR., University of California, Santa Barbara, ed. Spring 1973. 675 pp. 501645-9 Paper $5.95c

Presenting some of the best interpretive essays on the growth and development of the city, this collection of forty-five readings reflects the ideas and trends that illuminate critical themes and problems in American urban history. In this new edition, the editor has replaced seventeen articles and made extensive changes in his commentaries. Within an interdisciplinary framework, the volume features historians, but includes articles by sociologists, political scientists, geographers, and city planners.

American Vistas

LEONARD DINNERSTEIN, University of Arizona, and KENNETH T. JACKSON, Columbia University, eds. 1971. Vol. I. 1607-1877. 224 pp. 501430-8 Paper $2.25c. Vol. II. 1877 to the Present. 304 pp. 501431-6 Paper $2.25c

This two-volume set of twenty-nine articles explores diversified highlights of American history while it avoids historiographical concerns. The selections are by such noted authorities as Richard Hofstadter, Edmund S. Morgan, David B. Davis, Daniel J. Boorstin, Eric McKittrick, William E. Leuchtenburg, and Richard C. Wade.

Modern Europe and America

WILLIAM H. McNEILL, University of Chicago, and SCHUYLER O. HOUSER, University of Nebraska, eds. (R. W. H.) Spring 1973. 320 pp. 501631-9 Paper $2.95c

The editors have selected materials representative of the important movements and changes in European and American history since 1500: the Renaissance and Reformation, the Democratic and Industrial Revolutions, and World Wars I and II. The recurring theme in the selections is the complex and ever-changing relationship between government and religion.

The Oxford Companion to American History

THOMAS H. JOHNSON, in consultation with Harvey Wish. 1966. 912 pp. 500597-X $15.00t

A convenient, one-volume reference to all significant aspects of American history and thought from Colonial times to the present. The volume contains 4,710 entries, 1,835 of them biographical. There are some 700 major cross references, and about 5,500 other cross references within articles. The longer articles conclude with references to recent authoritative sources of further information. Tables provide quick reference to the names and dates of persons who have held high offices in government and the judiciary.

Atlas of American History

EDWARD WHITING FOX, Cornell University, ed. 1964. 72 pp., including 24 pp. text and 48 pp. maps in color. 500883-9 Paper $3.50c

This attractive atlas highlights important topics and events in American history from the pre-colonial period to the present. Gazetteer.

The American Party Systems: Stages of Political Development

WILLIAM NISBET CHAMBERS, Washington University and WALTER DEAN BURNHAM, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, eds. 1967. 334 pp. 500505-8 Cloth $7.50t. 500849-9 Paper $2.95c

In these ten studies prominent historians and political scientists give their opinions on the major themes of American politics as they discuss the effect of historical conditions on comparative politics, the structure of American political systems, the role of partisan politics, and other topics.

This Sacred Trust:
American Nationality, 1798-
1898

PAUL C. NAGEL, University of Missouri. 1971. 384 pp. 501429-4 $9.50t

Perceptively explores the growth of American nationalism in its political, social, religious, economic, and literary implications. It begins with President Washington's farewell to a new nation fighting for survival and ends with the first outpouring of chauvinism in relation to the Spanish-American War.

Ten Major Issues in American Politics

RICHARD HOFSTADTER, ed. 1968. 304 pp. 500912-6 Paper $2.50c

Forty-three selections illuminate ten issues that have been of vital and persistent concern in American political history. Historical and modern writings, documents, and speeches focus on such topics as the American Revolution; the federal Constitution; slavery and abolition; individual liberties and constitutional rights; the growth of the giant corporation; world organization since 1919. An analytic essay by Professor Hofstadter precedes each section.

Free Government in the Making: Readings in American
Political Thought
Third Edition

ALPHEUS T. MASON, Princeton University. 1965. 950 pp. 500963-0 $10.00c

These 180 selections reflect influential and divergent views on the great issues in American political history, ranging from Puritan debates in England to questions that currently engage the nation. Introductory essays for each chapter place the readings in the continuity of American political thought.

Ideas and Diplomacy:
Readings in the Intellectual Tradition of American
Foreign Policy

NORMAN A. GRAEBNER, University of Virginia, ed. 1964. 912 pp. 500897-9 $10.95c

A collection of 180 significant statements which determined or defined the direction of American foreign policy, from the French and Indian War down through the Kennedy administration. Introductory essays by Professor Graebner precede each section and provide valuable commentary on twelve major phases of American foreign policy.

The Evolution of American Foreign Policy Second Edition

DEXTER PERKINS. 1966. 174 pp. 500729-8 Paper $1.75c

Traces the origins, development, and implications of American foreign policy from the Revolution to the present day.

History and American Society:
Essays of David M. Potter

DAVID M. POTTER, DON E. FEHRENBACHER, Stanford University, ed. Spring 1973. 320 pp. 501628-9 $7.95t

Brings together the renowned historian's essays on historiography and culture. The collection includes studies of C. Vann Woodward, Richard Hofstadter, and Frederick Jackson Turner, several essays on the American national character, a significant discussion of the historian's use of nationalism, and several related essays, as well as some articles never before published.

American Themes: Essays in Historiography

FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California, Los Angeles, and ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College, eds. 1968. 512 pp. 500888-X Paper $3.95c

Red, White, and Blue: Man, Books, and Ideas in American Culture

JOHN WILLIAM WARD, Amherst College. 1969. 320 pp. 500654-2 $8.00t

The ways in which history and imagination shape each other, and the meaning of individual freedom in history are examined in these seventeen reprinted essays whose subjects range from the novels of Cooper to the flight of Lindbergh.

European Socialists and the American Promised Land

R. LAURENCE MOORE, Yale University. 1970. 256 pp. 500028-5 $7.50t

European opinion of the growth of American democracy, and its effect on European socialism, forms the basis of this scholarly volume. Views of America as promised land, as capitalist giant, and as bourgeois nation are seen in the writings of such prominent socialists as Shaw, the Webbs, and Lenin and Trotsky. Their contributions to the international debate about America's significance have obvious relation to themes sounded at mid-century.

The Revival of American Socialism

GEORGE FISCHER, Richmond College of the City University of New York, ed. 1971. 450 pp. 501412-X Cloth $10.50t. 501413-8 Paper (G.B. 349) $3.50k

These provocative essays bring into clear focus the tenor of thinking by today's academic left, ranging from that of distinguished non-Marxists to prominent Marxist scholars and theorists. The papers derive from the annual meetings of the Socialist Scholars Conference, 1965 through 1969.

The South Since Appomattox: A Century of Regional Change

THOMAS D. CLARK, Indiana University, and ALBERT D. KIRWAN. 1967. 448 pp. Illus. 500852-9 $8.50c

An attempt to reconcile two very different images of American life.

American Place-Names: A Concise and Selective Dictionary for the Continental United States of America

GEORGE R. STEWART. 1970. 592 pp. 500121-4 $12.50t

Directed to students of the American past, as well as to contemporary geography and folklore buffs, this book contains some 12,000 entry-headings listing the derivation and linguistic meaning of American place-names. Notable places, such as chief rivers and mountains, sites of historical significance, and unusual names reflecting early customs, dialects, and non-English usage are included on the basis of inherent interest.

Freud and the Americans: The Beginnings of Psychoanalysis in the United States, 1876-1917

NATHAN G. HALE, JR., University of California, Riverside. 1971. 650 pp. 501427-8 $15.00t

The first volume of a wide-ranging study which explores in depth the professional, social, and moral order that determined Freud's reception in America and dispels the many myths that have tried to account for his impact. This unique historical analysis contains many original insights into American society of the First World War period, into the nature of the American moral revolution, and into the theories and personality of Freud himself.

America's Heroes: The Changing Models of Success in American Magazines

THEODORE P. GREENE, Amherst College. 1970. 416 pp. 501236-4 $9.50t

America's shifting image of the "successful" man, from the early days of the Republic to modern times, is analyzed in this selection of biographies from popular periodicals. The study also serves as an excellent capsule history of American magazines.

Baseball

HAROLD SEYMOUR. Vol. I. The Early Years. 1960. 373 pp. Illus. 500100-1 $8.50t. Vol. II. The Golden Age, 1903-1930. 1971. 500 pp. Illus. 501403-0 $12.50t

A definitive history of the great American sport, from the first recorded ball game at Valley Forge during the Revolution to the legendary decades of the early twentieth century. A dramatic study of the game both on the field and in the business office, the book shows how baseball has mirrored the economic and social growth of America.

The Life and Decline of the American Railroad

JOHN F. STOVER, Purdue University. 1970. 350 pp. Illus. Maps. 500122-2 $7.50t

A Tower in Babel: A History of Broadcasting in the United States

COLONIAL PERIOD TO 1877

Origins of the Fifth Amendment: The Right Against Self-Incrimination

LEONARD W. LEVY, Claremont Graduate School. 1968. 576 pp. 500626-7 Cloth $15.00t. 501356-5 Paper (G.B. 340) $3.95k

ERIK BARNOUW, Columbia University. Vol. I. To 1933. 1966. 350 pp. 500474-4 $10.75t

This book is both the story of an important modern phenomenon and a vivid bit of American social history and business enterprise. The story begins with Marconi's work in wireless telegraphy and proceeds to "ham" operators communicating with each other, and the revelations of World War I. After the War it tells how the industry became a force in politics, business, education, religion, and international affairs.

The Golden Web: A History of Broadcasting in the United States

ERIK BARNOUW, Columbia University. Vol. II. 1933-1953. 1968. 400 pp. Illus. 500475-2 $10.75t

The author evokes an era during which radio touched almost every American's life. He shows the behind-the-scenes struggles for power, the growing stranglehold of the advertising agencies on radio programming, the development of documentaries, the involvement of radio during World War II, and the growth of news broadcasting.

The Image Empire: A History of Broadcasting in the United States

ERIK BARNOUW, Columbia University. Vol. III: From 1953. 1970. 416 pp. Illus. 501259-3 $10.75t

Within a decade of the end of the Korean War, American television, closely allied with business and political interests, had become an international force with far-flung social implications. The author recalls the boom years of the medium, from the McCarthy hearings to the landings on the moon.

Awarded the 1969 Pulitzer Prize in history, this book probes the intentions of the framers of the Fifth Amendment's all-important clause on the right against self-incrimination. The author traces controversial issues in the history of the concept from before Magna Carta, through the Tudor and early Stuart periods, and through pre-Revolutionary conflicts in the Colonies; and he follows the details of its establishment in the Constitution.

English Historical Documents: Vol. IX, American Colonial Documents to 1776

MERRILL JENSEN, University of Wisconsin, ed. (E.H.D.) 1955. 912 pp. 519506-X $22.50w

CARL BRIDENBAUGH. 1962. 374 pp. Plates. 500747-6 Paper (G.B. 197) $2.95k

A vivid account of the attempt of the Church of England to expand its influence and establish itself as the state church in the American colonies.

Rebels and Gentlemen: Philadelphia in the Age of Franklin

CARL BRIDENBAUGH and JESSICA BRIDENBAUGH, eds. 1965. 414 pp. Figs., maps. 500424-8 Paper (G.B. 141) $2.95k

A biography of a rapidly growing, economically prosperous and cosmopolitan city of the eighteenth century.

Cities in the Wilderness: The First Century of Urban Life in America, 1625-1742

CARL BRIDENBAUGH. 1971. 518 pp. 501361-1 Paper (G.B. 345) $3.95k

Originally published in 1938, this study shows the importance of urban society during the early Colonial period, as contrasted with frontier societies. It relates the story of the founding and early growth of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Newport, and Charleston up to 1742.

Cities in Revolt: Urban Life in America, 1743-1776

CARL BRIDENBAUGH. 1971. 559 pp. 19 illus. 501362-X Paper (G.B. 346) $3.95k

The author recreates, by a synthesis of contemporary documents, the temper and spirit of the young American cities in the crucial years preceding the Revolution. The work is a companion to the author's Cities in the Wilderness, but also may be read independently.

A Little Commonwealth: Family Life in Plymouth Colony

JOHN DEMOS, Brandeis University. 1970. 221 pp. Illus. 500528-7 Cloth $6.75t. 501355-7 Paper (G.B. 344) $1.95k

That microcosm of history, the family, and its role in the development of society, is examined in this study of the Plymouth Colony during the first two generations of its existence. Beginning with a short history of the Colony, the author gives a detailed account of Pilgrim life—styles of housing, furniture, and clothing, and roles and relationships influencing individual personality.

The Mathers: Three Generations of Puritan Intellectuals, 1596-1728

ROBERT MIDDLEKAUFF, University of California, Berkeley. 1971. 488 pp. 501305-0 $12.50t

Formidable intellects, influential writers, prominent clergymen, and leading citizens of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, Richard, Increase, and Cotton Mather played a unique role in colonial New England. In this chronicle of three generations, from Richard's conversion to Puritanism in England to Cotton Mather's evangelical and mystical religious concepts, the author reconstructs the intellectual history of Puritanism in New England from its beginnings through the early eighteenth century.

Poor Richard's Politicks: Benjamin Franklin and His New American Order

PAUL W. CONNER. 1965. 300 pp. 500775-1 Paper (G.B. 255) $1.95k

A systematic examination of the political and social thought of Benjamin Franklin and a brilliant exposition of the political ideas of his era.

$15.00t. 500920-7 $10.00c

This definitive work by one of America's foremost historians of the Revolutionary period centers on the stretch of years in which America made the crucial decision for Independence. The account is essentially a political history.

The Boston Tea Party

BENJAMIN W. LABAREE, Williams College. 1964. 358 pp. 500609-7 Cloth $8.50q. 500761-1 Paper (G.B. 232) $2.75k

The author traces the background of events that led up to the Boston Tea Party, and then shows how, as a catalytic agent, the event set in motion other forces that led to war and independence for the colonies.

Lord Stirling

ALAN VALENTINE. 1969. 320 pp. 500636-4 $6.50t

An engrossing biography of William Alexander—colonial gentleman and general in Washington's army, who claimed title to a Scottish earldom—offers valuable insights into social life, politics, and public policy in America at the time of the Revolution.

Thomas Jefferson and the New Nation: A Biography

MERRILL D. PETERSON, University of Virginia. 1970. 1,088 pp. Illus. 500054-4 $15.00t

Keeping Jefferson the man in the foreground, this one-volume biography distills the findings of present-day scholarship to reveal the growth of Jefferson's thought in relation to his role in the founding of the new nation.

The Jefferson Image
in the American Mind

MERRILL D. PETERSON. 1960. 560 pp. 501539-8 Cloth $15.00q. 500698-4 Paper (G.B. 71) $3.95k

An illuminating study of Jefferson's ideas, policies, and sentiments, and their impact upon American political and intellectual development.

The States Rights Debate: Antifederalism and the Constitution Second Edition

ALPHEUS THOMAS MASON, Princeton University, ed. 1972. 224 pp. 501553-3 Paper $1.95c

The thirty-seven readings, chosen from important public documents and from speeches and letters by Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton, Elbridge Gerry and other statesmen of the formative period, reveal the essence of Antifederalist thought which led to the Tenth Amendment. The editor's essays and notes relate these selections to the ongoing debate over states rights.

A Biography of the Constitution of the United States: Its Origin, Formation,
Adoption, Interpretation

BROADUS MITCHELL and LOUISE PEARSON MITCHELL. 1964. 400 pp. 500025-0 Cloth $10.50q. 500990-8 Paper $2.95c

An absorbing account that describes the development of the United States Constitution, from the particular conditions that prompted the conception of such a document through some of the great controversies that have arisen over its interpretation.

Essays on the Making of the Constitution

LEONARD W. LEVY, ed. Claremont Graduate School. 1969. 288 pp. 500954-1 Paper $2.50c

These ten essays by leading historians provide significant, representative, and controversial writings on the origin and framing of the Constitution. Contributions are by Charles A. Beard, Charles Warren, Andrew C. McLaughlin, Merrill Jensen, Robert E. Brown, Forrest McDonald, Jackson T. Main, E. James Ferguson, John P. Roche, and Stanley M. Elkins and Eric McKittrick.

Political Parties in a
New Nation: The American

A study of the beginnings and subsequent growth of American political parties, from the first national government in 1789 through Jefferson's presidency.

Jefferson and Madison:
The Great Collaboration

ADRIENNE KOCH. 1964. 320 pp. 500420-5 Paper (G.B. 110) $2.95k

This book explores the political theory that Jefferson and Madison jointly professed, and indicates their characteristic differences as well as their basic agreement about political values.

The Jeffersonian Crisis: Courts and Politics in the Young Republic

RICHARD E. ELLIS, University of Virginia. 1971. 384 pp. 501390-5 $9.75t

Describes the struggle that took place over the judiciary on national and state levels when Thomas Jefferson was President. Judicial review, and the powers of the United States Supreme Court to nullify or support actions of the President and Congress, originated from this ideological struggle.

Adventures to China:
Americans in the Southern Oceans, 1792–1812

JAMES KIRKER. 1970. 208 pp. Illus. Maps. 501286-0 $7.50t

After the American Revolution, the Pacific and the Indian Oceans offered new trade routes to Yankee skippers, and ships laden with fur seal skins and sandalwood crossed the South Seas to China. This almost unknown chapter in American history ended with the War of 1812, and James Kirker imparts high adventure in its telling.

Andrew Jackson: Symbol for an Age

JOHN WILLIAM WARD, Amherst College. 1955. 286 pp. Plates. 500653-4 Cloth $6.50q. 500699-2 Paper (G.B. 73) $1.95k

This study of the Jacksonian era is illuminated by episodes from Andrew Jackson's career, and the author depicts him as victorious general, rough-hewn frontiersman, man of iron will, and child of Providence. He also shows how one man's legendary image is related to the psychology of myth and hero-making in general.

One Nation Indivisible:
The Union in American
Thought, 1776–1861

PAUL C. NAGEL, University of Missouri, Columbia. 1964. 336 pp. 500035-8 $8.50q

A presentation of the differing views of the meaning of the term 'union' held by Americans from the time of the Revolution to the onset of the Civil War.

Education in Boston,
1789–1860

STANLEY K. SCHULTZ, University of Wisconsin, Madison. (U.L.A.) Spring 1973. 400 pp. Illus. 501668-8 $10.95t

Until well into the nineteenth century, Boston had the most advanced and successful system of public education in America, in part because of the influence of Horace Mann. This book, which focuses on grammar schools, shows that many of today's issues in education were also major concerns then: the quality of education, racial imbalance, religious influence, an unresponsive bureaucracy, immigrant problems and neighborhood schools.

The Plain People of Boston,
1830–1860: A Study in City
Growth

PETER R. KNIGHTS, York University. (U.L.A.) 1971. 224 pp. Illus. Maps. 501488-X $7.95t. 501675-0 Paper $2.50c

Using public records, reports and local histories, the author reconstructs the life patterns of 1,540 people—chosen at random—who lived in Boston during this period. Such topics are explored as their ethnicity and geographical origin, where they lived and how often they moved, the kinds of jobs they held, and the extent of their financial success.

Poverty in New York,
1783-1825

RAYMOND A. MOHL, Florida Atlantic University. (U.L.A.) 1971. 320 pp. 501367-0 $8.50t

Examining New York City in the generation after the American Revolution, the author reveals the wide extent of poverty existing at that time, and the ineffective means employed to deal with it.

The Land Office Business: The Settlement and Administration of American Public Lands,
1789-1837

MALCOLM J. ROHRBOUGH, University of Iowa. 1968. 384 pp. Maps. 500084-6 Cloth $8.75t. 501472-3 Paper (G.B. 357) $2.50k

A study of how the well-documented land "policy" of this nation actually functioned, the book gives, in particular, an account of the dramatic sales of public lands in the years of prosperity between 1815 and 1837, when eastern capitalist and small settler alike joined in the rush and created the land office business.

American Negro Slavery:
A Modern Reader
Second Edition

ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College, and FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California, Los Angeles, eds. Spring 1973. 375 pp. 501670-X Cloth $7.50t. 501669-6 Paper $2.95c

The Second Edition of this widely-acclaimed book of readings includes the best of the recent essays on Negro slavery. The current emphasis on the social history of the slave is reflected in the revision. Of the twenty-three articles, twelve are new to this edition, including selections by Winthrop Jordan, Sterling Stuckey, Eugene Genovese, David Brion Davis, Robert Starobin, and Carl Degler. An excellent bibliography completes the volume.

Free Soil, Free Labor, Free Men: The Ideology of the Republican Party before the Civil War

ERIC FONER, Columbia University. 1970. 350 pp. 500548-1 Cloth $9.50t. 501352-2 Paper (G.B. 342) $2.95k

A substantial re-evaluation of the causes of the Civil War, this work traces the development of a specific ideology within the Republican party that the North accepted as vital to its way of life. The author rejects slavery or the preservation of the Union as the North's motivation, stressing instead more complex causes: defense of free labor, the Protestant ethic, advocacy of basic rights for the Negro, and belief in the necessity of an expanding America.

North America Divided:
The Mexican War,
1846-1848

SEYMOUR V. CONNOR, Texas Tech University, and ODIE B. FAULK, Oklahoma State University. 1971. 304 pp. Maps. 501448-0 $7.95t

Two historians of and from the American Southwest reconstruct graphically and without bias what is perhaps the most misunderstood war in American history. Using Mexican as well as American sources, the authors show how internal Mexican politics and, in America, factionalism between Whigs and Democrats, influenced the start of the war, and also how a struggle that began according to party lines ended as a tragic sectional war. The story embodies an abundance of first-hand political and military detail.

Stephen A. Douglas

ROBERT W. JOHANNSEN, University of Illinois, Urbana. Spring 1973. 832 pp. Illus. 501620-3 $17.50t

The full biography of the senator from Illinois, Democratic Presidential candidate of 1860, and rival of Lincoln in the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 1858. Since Douglas dominated American political life in the 1850's, the book focuses on the major events of that decade which climaxed in the outbreak of the Civil War.

The Lincoln-Douglas
Debates of 1858

Kefauver: A Political Biography

JOSEPH BRUCE GORMAN. 1971. 448 pp. Illus. 501481-2 $10.00t

A perceptive biography that shows how Kefauver, in the best populist tradition, battled political bosses, organized crime, and big business. Mr. Gorman's book brings to Kefauver's senatorial battles and to the 1952 and 1956 Presidential campaigns in particular a rare brand of insight, putting his activities and achievements for the first time into a clear perspective.

Frederick Jackson Turner:
Historian, Scholar, Teacher

RAY ALLEN BILLINGTON, Henry E. Huntington Library, San Mateo. Spring 1973. 512 pp. Illus. 501609-2 $15.00t

The definitive biography of the complex and fascinating man whose theories about the frontier altered our understanding of the nation's past. The author stresses Turner's formative years but covers virtually every aspect of his life to give the reader a well-rounded understanding of the man and a vivid picture of the academic life of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Andrew Carnegie

JOSEPH FRAZIER WALL, Grinnell College. 1970. 1,149 pp. Illus. 501282-8 $15.00t

This biography of one of the giants of American industry encompasses much of the modern history of the United States and Great Britain before the outbreak of World War I. The excitement of America's post-Civil War business expansion and the drama of Carnegie's rise from telegraph messenger boy to millionaire philanthropist are vividly portrayed.

Tombstone: Myth and Reality

ODIE B. FAULK, Oklahoma State University. 1972. 272 pp. Illus. 501581-9 $7.50t

Looks beyond the saga of Wyatt Earp and the gunfight at the OK Corral to recreate life in Tombstone as it really was in the 1880's. Revealing the reality of Tombstone to be as fascinating as its legend, the author discusses the mining strikes that established the town; the hard-working, hard-drinking miners who lived there; the end of the mining boom; and finally, the deliberate creation of the Tombstone myth to cash in on a tourist boom and keep the town alive.

The Geronimo Campaign

ODIE B. FAULK, Oklahoma State University. 1969. 256 pp. Maps, illus. 500544-9 $6.00t

A spirited account of the conflict between the U.S. Army and the Apache war leader Geronimo, this book throws a sharp light on personalities and events, on Geronimo's final surrender in 1886, and on the sorry record of betrayal that followed.

Children in Urban Society: Juvenile Delinquency in Nineteenth-Century America

JOSEPH M. HAWES, Kansas State University. (U.L.A.) 1971. 304 pp. 501410-3 $8.50t

From the records and archives of early child aid societies, and from the transcripts of juvenile court hearings, the author sets forth the problem of juvenile delinquency as Americans in the last century saw it. He provides both background and perspective for contemporary efforts to deal with the problem.

Italians in Chicago, 1880-1930: A Study in Ethnic Mobility

HUMBERT S. NELLI, University of Kentucky. (U.L.A.) 1970. 320 pp. Maps. 501283-6 $8.50q. 501674-2 Paper $2.50c

By 1910, more than 70% of the inhabitants of major Northeastern cities were immigrants of foreign stock, and the story of American urban development is inextricable from their own. Examining social institutions, economic activity, and political groups, Professor Nelli emphasizes the growth of Italian social mobility.

Back to Nature: The Arcadian Myth in Urban America

PETER J. SCHMITT, Western Michigan University. (U.L.A.) 1969. 224 pp. 500094-3 $7.50t

Investigates the rediscovery of nature by Americans living in cities, starting around the turn of the 20th century and going up into the 1920s. The author describes the ways in which urban dwellers, particularly intellectuals, became involved with nature in what amounted to a national craze in the years before World War I.

The Pendergast Machine

LYLE W. DORSETT, University of Colorado. (U.L.A.) 1968. 180 pp. 500532-5 Cloth $6.00q. 500869-3 Paper $2.50c

The Pendergast Machine of Kansas City was, from 1890 to 1940, one of the most notorious and powerful political organizations in America. This study projects its history within the context of the urban explosion.

Mobile Americans: Residential and Social Mobility in Omaha, 1880-1920

HOWARD P. CHUDACOFF, Brown University. (U.L.A.) 1972. 208 pp. Illus. 501509-6 $8.95t

Collects the experiences of hundreds of individuals into a quantitative historical analysis of residential mobility in a midwestern city when it was growing into a major commercial center and its population was rapidly changing.

Boss Cox's Cincinnati: Urban Politics in the Progressive Era

ZANE L. MILLER, University of Cincinnati. (U.L.A.) 1968. 318 pp. 8 maps. 500987-8 Paper $2.50c

One of America's fastest growing cities in the late nineteenth century, Cincinnati underwent drastic changes that mirrored the problems of all major American cities. From an analysis of its shifting political pattern, the author succeeds in recreating Cincinnati's life and the structure of its varied groups and organizations, showing the relationship of these to "bossism," municipal reform and progressivism.

Spearheads for Reform: The Social Settlements and the Progressive Movement, 1890-1914

ALLEN F. DAVIS, Temple University. (U.L.A.) 1967. 342 pp. 500527-9 Cloth $8.50t. 500862-6 Paper $2.50c

A group of young idealists went to live in the social settlements in the two decades before World War I, among them Jane Addams, Lillian Wald, Robert Wood, Graham Taylor, and others. This study describes their work and achievements in such cities as New York, Chicago, and Boston.

Reform in Detroit: Hazen S. Pingree and Urban Politics

MELVIN G. HOLLI, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle. (U.L.A.) 1969. 269 pp. 501673-4 Paper $2.50c

This first study of Detroit's dynamic mayor and his turbulent city during the 1890's shows Pingree to have been possibly the most pioneering and effective of reform mayors.

Pullman: An Experiment in Industrial Order and Community Planning, 1880-1930

STANLEY BUDER, Bernard M. Baruch College, City University of New York. (U.L.A.) 1967. 282 pp. Plates. 500838-3 Paper $2.95c

In 1880 George M. Pullman, of sleeping car fame, commissioned a planned, model town to be constructed south of Chicago in conjunction with his new factory. Using material previously inaccessible to the historian, the author describes the basic flaws in Pullman's plan, how the town of Pullman, Illinois, wound employer and worker together in a knot of red tape and surveillance, and why the Pullman experiment inevitably failed.

The New York Police: Colonial Times to 1901

JAMES F. RICHARDSON, University of Akron. (U.L.A.) 1970. 346 pp. 500083-8 $8.50t

A study of the growth of the largest and most efficient law-enforcement agency in nineteenth-century America. The author traces the evolution of the modern municipal police force, the relation of various immigrant groups to this force, the ebb and flow of urban violence, and the establishment of standards and traditions for law enforcement agencies.

American Urban History: An Interpretive Reader with Commentaries Second Edition

ALEXANDER B. CALLOW, JR., University of California, Santa Barbara, ed. Spring 1973. 675 pp. 501645-9 Paper $5.95c

Presenting some of the best interpretive essays on the growth and development of the city, this collection of forty-five readings reflects the ideas and trends that illuminate critical themes and problems in American urban history. In this new edition, the editor has replaced seventeen articles and made extensive changes in his commentaries. Within an interdisciplinary framework, the volume features historians, but includes articles by sociologists, political scientists, geographers, and city planners.

The Tweed Ring

ALEXANDER B. CALLOW, JR., University of California, Santa Barbara. 1966. 364 pp. Figs. 500779-4 Paper (G.B. 265) $2.95k

This book covers the rise, operations, and downfall in New York of what was probably the most famous city political machine in American history.

"The Best Men": Liberal Reformers in a Gilded Age

JOHN G. SPROAT, Lake Forest College. 1968. 368 pp. 500112-5 Cloth $7.50t. 501354-9 Paper (G.B. 338) $2.75k

Professor Sproat's inquiry into American political life in the generation after the Civil War is a basic reinterpretation of the forces of reform during the so-called Gilded Age. He shows that these "best men," a group of self-styled liberals, led by well-meaning businessmen, intellectuals, and journalists, do not deserve their reputation as a forward-looking political force.

Men of Good Hope: A Story of American Progressives

DANIEL AARON, Harvard University. 1961. 352 pp. 501232-1 Cloth $10.00q. 500693-3 Paper (G.B. 58) $2.50k

RACE RELATIONS AND CIVIL RIGHTS

American Negro Slavery: A Modern Reader Second Edition

ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College, and FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California, Los Angeles, eds. Spring 1973. 375 pp. 501670-X Cloth $7.50t. 501669-6 Paper $2.95c

The Second Edition of this widely-acclaimed book of readings includes the best of the recent essays on Negro slavery. The current emphasis on the social history of the slave is reflected in the revision. Of the twenty-three articles, twelve are new to this edition, including selections by Winthrop Jordan, Sterling Stuckey, Eugene Genovese, David Brion Davis, Robert Starobin, and Carl Degler. An excellent bibliography completes the volume.

The Segregation Era, 1863-1954: A Modern Reader

ALLEN WEINSTEIN, Smith College, and FRANK OTTO GATELL, University of California, Los Angeles, eds. 1970. 320 pp. 500657-7 Cloth $7.50t. 501099-X Paper $2.95c

A sequel to the editors' American Negro Slavery, this collection of twenty-one essays covers the period from the Civil War to the 1954 Supreme Court decision, a point which marks roughly the beginning of the Black Revolution. Benjamin Quarles, John Hope Franklin, C. Vann Woodward, and Joel Williamson are among the writers represented.

The Strange Career of Jim Crow

Second Revised Edition
C. VANN WOODWARD, Yale University. 1966. 224 pp. 500671-2 Cloth $6.50t. 500678-X Paper (G.B. 6) $1.95k

Incorporating the developments and revolutionary changes of the past decade, this definitive study provides extensive information on civil rights legislation, the sit-in movement, racial clashes, demonstrations, the non-violence resistance movement, and problems in the North. It also gives fresh interpretations of slavery in the South, and segregation in the North before the Civil War, and conditions during the Reconstruction period.

Booker T. Washington: The Making of a Black Leader, 1856-1901

LOUIS R. HARLAN, University of Maryland. 1972. 400 pp. Illus. 501596-7 $10.95t

The first volume of a definitive life-and-times study of a man who was as little understood in his own time as he is today. Professor Harlan portrays Washington as a man of action and influence who ruled Tuskegee Institute in Alabama with the firm hand of a benevolent despot. He enjoyed unparalleled prestige among whites. In his famous Atlanta Compromise Address, he advised blacks to develop morally and economically before demanding full equality; yet in deepest secrecy he financed and directed court cases opposing "Jim Crow" segregation.

The Slave Community: Plantation Life in the Antebellum South

JOHN W. BLASSINGAME, Yale University. 1972 (Paper, Spring 1973). 288 pp. 56 illus. 501579-7 Cloth $7.95t. 501583-5 Paper $1.95c

Researching literary narratives, memoirs, plantation documents, and autobiographies, the author reinterprets the stereotyped master-slave relationship. He shows conclusively that within his own quarters the slave led a rich cultural and family life that was deliberately kept hidden from his white masters.

Moorfield Storey and the Abolitionist Tradition

WILLIAM B. HIXSON, JR., Michigan State University. 1972. 272 pp. 501513-4 $8.75t

Moorfield Storey, nineteenth-century lawyer, reformer, and civil rights advocate, was one of the founders and the first president of the NAACP. This perceptive biography shows him to be an important precursor of liberal thought in the United States.

Flight and Rebellion: Slave Resistance in Eighteenth-Century Virginia

GERALD W. MULLIN, Sacramento State College. 1972. 240 pp. 501514-2 $7.95t

Professor Mullin's investigation discloses a central paradox of the slave society of Virginia—as slaves became skilled craftsmen and artisans, they became unsuited to plantation slavery and better able to resist it. The study reconstructs the lives of the slaves and traces the course of slavery as an institution from the beginnings of resistance to the dramatic events behind Gabriel Prosser's rebellion in 1800.

Free Negroes in the District of Columbia, 1790-1846

LETITIA WOODS BROWN, George Washington University. (U.L.A.) 1972. 256 pp. 501552-5 $7.95t

Through a detailed examination of newspapers, family histories, court records, church documents, and other contemporary evidence, the author shows how master and slave, runaway and servant interacted against the background of daily life and describes the many ways through which slaves gained their freedom.

Segregated Sabbaths: Richard Allen and the Rise of Independent Black Churches, 1760-1840

CAROL V. R. GEORGE, State University of New York, Oswego. Spring 1973. 200 pp. 501678-5 Cloth $7.50t. 501677-7 Paper $2.25c

The church is generally regarded as the heart of the black community in America. This biography sheds light upon the origins of the independent black church movement, which began in 1787 when a group of blacks led by the former slave Richard Allen walked out of St. George's Methodist Church in Philadelphia.

Slavery in the Cities: The South 1820-1860

RICHARD C. WADE, Graduate Center, City University of New York. 1964. 352 pp. 500643-7 Cloth $7.50t. 500755-7 Paper (G.B. 209) $2.25k

The author contrasts urban slavery with the more familiar picture historians have drawn of slavery on the farm and the plantation, and gives a vivid account of the city slave's daily life.

Industrial Slavery in the Old South

ROBERT S. STAROBIN. 1970. 300 pp. 500113-3 Cloth $8.95t. 501350-6 Paper (G.B. 343) $2.50k

The first book to examine the nature of slavery in the budding industries, both urban and rural, in the antebellum South. The findings indicate a level of discrimination and oppression that often exceeded that on the plantations.

From Slavery to Public Service: Robert Smalls, 1839-1915

OKON EDET UYA, University of Wisconsin. 1971. 192 pp. 501291-7 Cloth $6.00t. 501290-9 Paper $1.95c

A biography of the black Civil War hero who began his public career by running a Confederate vessel out of Charleston harbor and turning it over to the Union naval blockade. Robert Smalls went on to become a controversial political figure in South Carolina, and his life provides valuable commentary on the issues and problems of the Reconstruction Era.

The Anti-Slavery Movement and Reconstruction: A Study in Anglo-American Cooperation, 1833-77

CHRISTINE BOLT. (I.R.R.) 1969. 208 pp. 218181-5 $6.00w

In this study of the anti-slavery movement in Britain, the author shows the work of the freedmen's aid societies and their cooperation with American agencies during the years 1863-1869 and examines as well the extent of British interest in America's ex-slaves in the post-1865 period.

"Gentlemen of Property and Standing": Anti-Abolition Mobs in Jacksonian America

LEONARD L. RICHARDS, University of Massachusetts. 1970. 208 pp. 500082-X Cloth $6.50t. 501351-4 Paper (G.B. 347) $1.95k

In exploring the great increase in riots and mob action that occurred in the 1830's, the author shows how they were led by leading citizens as a reaction against the abolitionist movement.

Black Abolitionists

BENJAMIN QUARLES, Morgan State College. 1969. 320 pp. 500065-X Cloth $9.50q. 500804-9 Paper (G.B. 310) $1.95k

The extent to which Negroes themselves were involved in the great crusade against slavery is made clear for the first time.

Lincoln and the Negro

BENJAMIN QUARLES, Morgan State College. 1962. 286 pp. Illus. 500066-8 $8.50t

Starting with Lincoln's childhood attitudes, Benjamin Quarles traces the development of Lincoln's thought in relation to the Negro, a development which was to culminate in the Emancipation Proclamation.

Scottsboro: A Tragedy of the American South

DAN T. CARTER, University of Maryland. 1969. 444 pp. Illus. 501485-5 Paper (G.B. 363) $3.95k

This carefully researched, dramatically told account of nine black youths accused of rape in the 1930's has won the Jules F. Landry Award, the Lillian Smith Award, the Anisfield-Wolf Award in Race Relations, and the Bancroft Prize.

The Ku Klux Klan in the City 1915-1930

KENNETH T. JACKSON, Columbia University. (U.L.A.) 1967. 500591-0 Cloth $8.50q. 500918-5 Paper $2.50c

Challenging the traditional belief that the Ku Klux Klan was a rural movement, this volume presents a fresh perspective by examining the hitherto neglected urban aspect.

The Congress of Racial Equality: A Study in the Civil Rights Movement, 1942-1968

AUGUST MEIER and ELLIOTT RUDWICK, both of Kent State University. Spring 1973. 448 pp. 501627-0 $12.50t

Written from manuscripts and newspaper sources and from interviews with the major participants in CORE's history, this book is a study of the growth and decline of an important civil rights organization, from its inception in 1942 to the present time.

Black Men, White Cities: Race, Politics, and Migration in the United States, 1900-30, and Britain, 1948-68

IRA KATZNELSON, Columbia University. (I.R.R.) 1972. 256 pp. 218193-9 $9.95q

The first systematic comparison of race politics in Britain and the United States across periods of time. Common features are found in the New York and Chicago party organs formed in response to black migration from the south to the north in 1900-30 and in the institutional network of the National Committee for Commonwealth Immigrants/Community Relations Commission in British cities in 1948-68. The author criticizes prevailing analytical approaches to race problems and offers an alternative of his own.

White Protestantism and the Negro

DAVID M. REIMERS. 1965. 224 pp. 501195-3 $6.00r

The book begins in the eighteenth century and concludes in the early 1960's, but the stress is on the post-Civil War period and on the major Protestant denominations. The author discusses the churches' involvement with the anti-slavery crusade and the activities of the churches during Reconstruction to aid and educate southern Negroes.

Edward Wilmot Blyden: Pan-Negro Patriot, 1832-1912

HOLLIS R. LYNCH, Columbia University. (W.A.H.S.) 1967. 288 pp. Plates. 501268-2 Paper (G.B. 326) $1.95k

An examination of Blyden's pan-Negro ideas, this study throws new light on West African and American Negro history in the second half of the nineteenth century.

Latin America and the Caribbean

Argentina: A City and a Nation Second Edition

JAMES R. SCOBIE, Indiana University. (L.A.H.) 1971. 320 pp. 6 maps. 501479-0 Cloth $7.50t. 501480-4 Paper $2.50c

Recognized as the most comprehensive short history of Argentina in English, the book has been brought up to date by including discussion on such topics as: the change of governments; the rising discontent and disillusionment of laborers, students, and ordinary citizens; and the deepening of economic problems. Statistical information, bibliography, and chronology have also been updated.

The Growth and Culture of Latin America Second Edition

DONALD E. WORCESTER and WENDELL G. SCHAEFFER, both of Texas Christian University. Vol. 1: From Conquest to Independence. 1970. 528 pp. 501104-X Paper $4.95c. Vol. II: The Continuing Struggle for Independence. 1971. 640 pp. 501105-8 Paper $5.50c. One-volume edition, 1971. 1,172 pp. 501421-9 Cloth $20.00t

An introduction to almost five centuries of Latin American history, from European conquests of the ancient Indian empires to twentieth-century efforts, both capitalist and communist, at hemispheric unity. The first half of the text focuses on the internal history of Latin American nations through the Wars of Independence. The second half details the revolutions, political changes, and trends of social and economic reform in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, including recent relations with the United States.

The Colonial Heritage of Latin America: Essays on Economic Dependence in Perspective

STANLEY J. STEIN, Princeton University, and BARBARA H. STEIN. 1970. 230 pp. 500116-8 Cloth $5.00t. 501292-5 Paper $1.95c

Designed to give the reader a broad view of the ways in which Latin America has continued to be the prisoner of its colonial past. The authors show how the Iberian nations were economically dependent on such nations as England and France and how they stifled trade and initiative in their colonies in the interest of their own quick profit.

Masses in Latin America

IRVING LOUIS HOROWITZ, Rutgers University, ed. 1970. 624 pp. 500586-4 Cloth $13.50t. 500795-6 Paper (G.B. 297) $3.95k

Latin America's political and economic development—too often viewed in terms of elites, military leaders, and entrepreneurs—is examined for the first time in this volume in terms of the continent's masses. The editor's introduction provides a theoretical framework for the essays, by seventeen leading political scientists from North and South America.

The Quest for Change in Latin America: Sources for a Twentieth-Century Analysis

W. RAYMOND DUNCAN, State University of New York, Brockport, and JAMES NELSON GOODSSELL, eds. 1970. 576 pp. 501254-2 Cloth $12.50t. 501255-0 Paper $4.95c

This work examines Latin America's divergent approaches to change through the speeches, writings, and declarations of major leaders of this century. These materials, plus introductory essays by the authors, emphasize the critical period after World War II—the Cuban Revolution, and the increasingly strained relations between Latin America and the United States.

The Human Condition in Latin America

ERIC R. WOLF, Lehman College, City University of New York, and EDWARD C. HANSEN, Queens College, City University of New York. 1972. 384 pp. 33 photographs. 501570-3 Cloth $12.50t. 501569-X Paper $3.95c

The existential conditions under which most Latin Americans live are explored in a systematic dialectic between primary documents and social science analysis. A major theme is the growing polarization of masses and elites in Latin America, and the forms of conflict such polarization entails.

Latin American Affairs

RAYMOND CARR, ed. (S.A.P.) 1970. 158 pp. 827506-4 $5.75w

These essays on Latin American affairs include: Society and Mass Rebellion in Eighteenth Century Peru and Bolivia; Agrarian Expansion and Industrial Development in Argentina, 1880-1930; The Revolutionary Legion and the Brazilian Revolution of 1930; Labour and Politics in Chile; The Peasantry and the Cuban Revolution From the Spring of 1959 to the End of 1960.

Brazil: The Land and People

ROLLIE E. POPPINO, University of California, Davis. (L.A.H.) 1968. 384 pp. 500062-5 Cloth $8.50t. 501024-8 Paper $2.95c

Professor Poppino traces Brazilian history through its various phases: the Portuguese settlement; the move into the interior, with its emphasis on mining and cattle raising; the boom or bust economy grounded in coffee and rubber crops; the struggle to abolish slavery; the massive immigration that began in the eighteenth century; and the forced economic development and urbanization, with its consequent inflation and political instability.

Democracy in Mexico

PABLO GONZÁLEZ CASANOVA. Danielle Salti, trans. 1970. 256 pp. 42 pp. tables. 500502-3 Cloth $7.95t. 501533-9 Paper (G.B. 367) $1.95k

The author contends that social and intellectual theories rooted in eighteenth- and nineteenth-century European experience have little relevance for contemporary underdeveloped countries. He brings together a wealth of statistical material never before analyzed and constructs an original theory of the mechanisms of power underlying political stability and economic development in Mexico today.

Mexico: The Struggle for Modernity

CHARLES C. CUMBERLAND. (L.A.H.) 1968. 406 pp. Maps, tables. 500522-8 Cloth $8.50t. 500766-2 Paper (G.B. 244) $2.95k

In this survey of Mexican history from Aztec times to the present, the author gives special attention to social, economic, and cultural trends and relates them to political events, in particular to the Mexican Revolution.

Mexican Society During the Revolution: A Literary Approach

J. D. RUTHERFORD. 1971. 352 pp. 827183-2 $13.75w

Examining the proposition that novels are valuable sources for the study of social history, this book presents theoretical problems and methods which are tested in a socio-literary analysis of the Mexican Revolution of 1910-17.

North America Divided: The Mexican War, 1846-1848

SEYMOUR V. CONNOR, Texas Tech University, and ODIE B. FAULK, Oklahoma State University. 1971. 304 pp. Maps. 501448-0 $7.95t

Two historians of and from the American Southwest reconstruct graphically and without bias what is perhaps the most misunderstood war in American history. Using Mexican as well as American sources, the authors show how internal Mexican politics and, in America, factionalism between Whigs and Democrats, influenced the start of the war, and also how a struggle that began according to party lines ended as a tragic sectional war. The story embodies an abundance of first-hand political and military detail.

Politics in Brazil, 1930-1964: An Experiment in Democracy

THOMAS E. SKIDMORE, University of Wisconsin. 1967. 464 pp. 500105-2 Cloth $9.50t. 500784-0 Paper (G.B. 271) $2.95k

A thorough study of Brazilian politics from 1930 to the overthrow of the constitutional government in 1964.

GENERAL

English History: A Survey

SIR GEORGE CLARK. 1971. 567 pp. 14 maps. 822339-0 $10.00t

One of England's foremost historians presents a one-volume social, cultural, and political history of England, narrated within the broader context of European events. Blocking out groups of events of primary importance from Roman times to the end of World War II, Sir George links them together to show how the people of England came together to form their distinctive community; he tells how this has changed in the course of time and inquires into the genesis of the changes. The volume pays particular attention to the Victorian Age.

The Negro

W. E. BURGHARDT DU BOIS. With a new introduction by George Shepperson. 1970. 200 pp. Maps. Paper 501262-3 (G.B. 333) $1.95k

This pioneering work written by a co-founder of the NAACP more than fifty years ago claimed a place for Africa in world history. Intended as a broad chronicle of the Negro race, the book represents an early attempt to challenge the idea that no history worthy of consideration could be written about the Dark Continent before the coming of the white man. Exploding the myths of African primitivism, it opened the whole field of black historiography.

General

The Oxford Classical Dictionary Second Edition

N. G. L. HAMMOND and H. H. SCULLARD, comps. 1970. 1,198 pp. 869101-7 $26.00t

The new edition of this monumental work is of particular import in view of the great advances in classical learning and the momentous discoveries about the ancient world that have occurred in the past twenty years. Prepared by a team of distinguished scholars, the work contains many new articles. All other articles have been thoroughly revised, and an index of proper names has been added. The volume encompasses a broad range of subjects—art and archaeology, geography, history, literature, mythology, philosophy, religion, and science—to provide a comprehensive survey of important aspects of ancient life.

A History of the Ancient World

CHESTER G. STARR, University of Michigan. 1965. 768 pp. Plates, maps. 500114-1 Trade ed. $15.00t. 501067-1 College ed. $9.95c

This work provides a clear perspective of the whole sweep of ancient times, from the Paleolithic Age through the fifth century A.D. Most of the text concerns the great stream of development from the Near East through Greece and Rome, the base of Western civilization. At the same time, the book treats briefly the Chinese and Indian links to Western development and the Eastern influences on patterns of civilization that are important today.

Early Man: Prehistory and the Civilizations of the Ancient Near East

CHESTER G. STARR, University of Michigan. Spring 1973. 174 pp. 95 illus. (20 in color). 501641-6 Cloth $8.95t. 501640-8 Paper $3.50c

A companion to the author's The Ancient Greeks and The Ancient Romans, this work treats the earliest stages of human development in chronological order. Part I reviews the first two stages of man's existence, the food-gathering and food-raising periods. Parts II and III are devoted to two major stages of civilization in the Near East—Babylon in the days of King Hammurapi (c. 1750 B.C.) and the great Persian Empire (c. 500 B.C.). The book is richly illustrated, contains special essays on selected topics, and offers suggestions for further reading and a glossary.

The Origins of Civilization

WILLIAM H. McNEILL, University of Chicago, and JEAN W. SEDLAR, eds., (R.W.H.) 1968. 203 pp. Maps. 500969-X Paper $1.50c

A selection of source materials that depict the origins of civilization in the ancient Orient. Sample legends of creation are included in the first section. The remaining sections, Mesopotamian Civilization and Egyptian Civilization, are organized around two themes: the nature of kingship and the relationship between men and gods.

The Ancient Near East

WILLIAM H. McNEILL and JEAN W. SEDLAR, eds. (R.W.H.) 1968. 261 pp. 500970-3 Paper $1.50c

HISTORY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Mathematical Thought From Ancient to Modern Times

MORRIS KLINE, Courant Institute of Mathematical Science, New York University. 1972. 1,300 pp. Illus.
501496-0 $35.00t

The major creations and developments in mathematics from the beginnings in Babylonia and Egypt through the first few decades of the twentieth century are presented, with emphasis on developments since 1700. The author stresses the central ideas and great lines of mathematical thought, providing the reader with a broad historical panorama and a new perspective on what mathematics is, what its goals have been and are today, and its relationship to other historical events.

What Is Mathematical Logic?

Forerunners, 1870-1926

W. J. READER. 1970. 579 pp. Plates.
215937-2 $17.50q

This first volume of a two-volume history describes the growth of ICI within the context of the chemical industry as a whole. Mr. Reader discusses the revolutionary changes in that industry—in explosives, in alkalis, in dye-stuffs—during the decade after 1870. It is a story of giant businesses and giant personalities—Nobel, du Pont, IG Farbenindustrie, and many others.

R. HARRÉ. 1972. 200 pp. Illus.
885056-5 Cloth $4.50w. 888056-1
Paper (OPUS 56) $1.95q

This book shows how various views about the nature of science are related to the great historical schools of philosophy. The argument is set out in terms of certain concrete episodes in the history of science—a manner of exposition which brings out clearly the influence of philosophical theories on the development of science and of scientific discovery on modes of thinking in philosophy.

A Short History of Scientific Ideas to 1900

CHARLES SINGER. 1959. 546 pp.
Illus. 858110-6 Cloth $15.25q.
881049-0 Paper (O.P.B. 49) $5.75q

In placing the basic scientific ideas in a framework of world history, this book treats not only the physical and chemical but also the biological disciplines.

ARIZONA HISTORICAL FOUNDATION

Barry M. Goldwater — President and Chmn. of the Bd.

Bert M. Fireman — Exec. Vice President

No. 2, May 1966

3800 North Central

Phoenix, Arizona 85012

WE INVITE AND URGE YOU to join with us in helping Arizona to achieve a greater and richer appreciation of its thrilling historical heritage. The full, true story of Arizona's past has not yet been compiled and published. You can help achieve this on an intelligent and accurate level as a member of the Arizona Historical Foundation.

We are engaged in deep, scholarly research into significant facets of our state's pioneering development and growth. Our main effort is directed toward studying events and circumstances that built our state: The pioneer spirit, personal sacrifices and achievements, ingenuity succeeding against adversity, community and team efforts that accomplished the miracle of making the desert bloom like a rose.

We dig right down to the bare bones of history to find the economic and social forces that left enduring marks on the trails of the pioneers. We subsidize scholarly publications based upon sound research in order to provide students at all levels of instruction, as well as newcomers and those of us who still are learning about our state, the answers to pertinent questions about Arizona's past such as:

Who actually were the builders of our significant, social, economic and political institutions?

Who were the outstanding heroes and heroines of our progress?

What basic economic or political forces most effected Arizona development?

How did trade and industry overcome the obstacles of remoteness and transportation difficulties in establishing a solid economic base in Arizona?

We in central Arizona should take as much pride in our development as other parts of the state previously have demonstrated through the activities of their historical societies.

We invite you to join with us in this year of creation, progress, and advancement as the Arizona Historical Foundation develops a research library that will give impetus to further historical research in the state's population center.

Become a member of the Arizona Historical Foundation. Write your check and mail it today in the enclosed self-addressed envelope.

—BARRY GOLDWATER

MEDICINE IN TERRITORIAL ARIZONA: Our newest book will be distributed May 14, 1966. Written by Frances E. Quebbeman, formerly a Commander in the Nurse Corps, U. S. Navy, the 448-page book presents a fascinating review of medical practice in Arizona from the time of the Indian shaman and Spanish military surgeon, through the entire pioneer period to statehood in 1912.

ACHIEVEMENT AWARD: Joseph P. Formica of Phoenix won the Foundation's annual $100 cash award and plaque given to a senior at Arizona State University who has made the most progress in the field of Arizona history. Formica plans to do graduate work in history at the University of Virginia. Similar awards are given by the Foundation each year at the University of Arizona and Northern Arizona University.

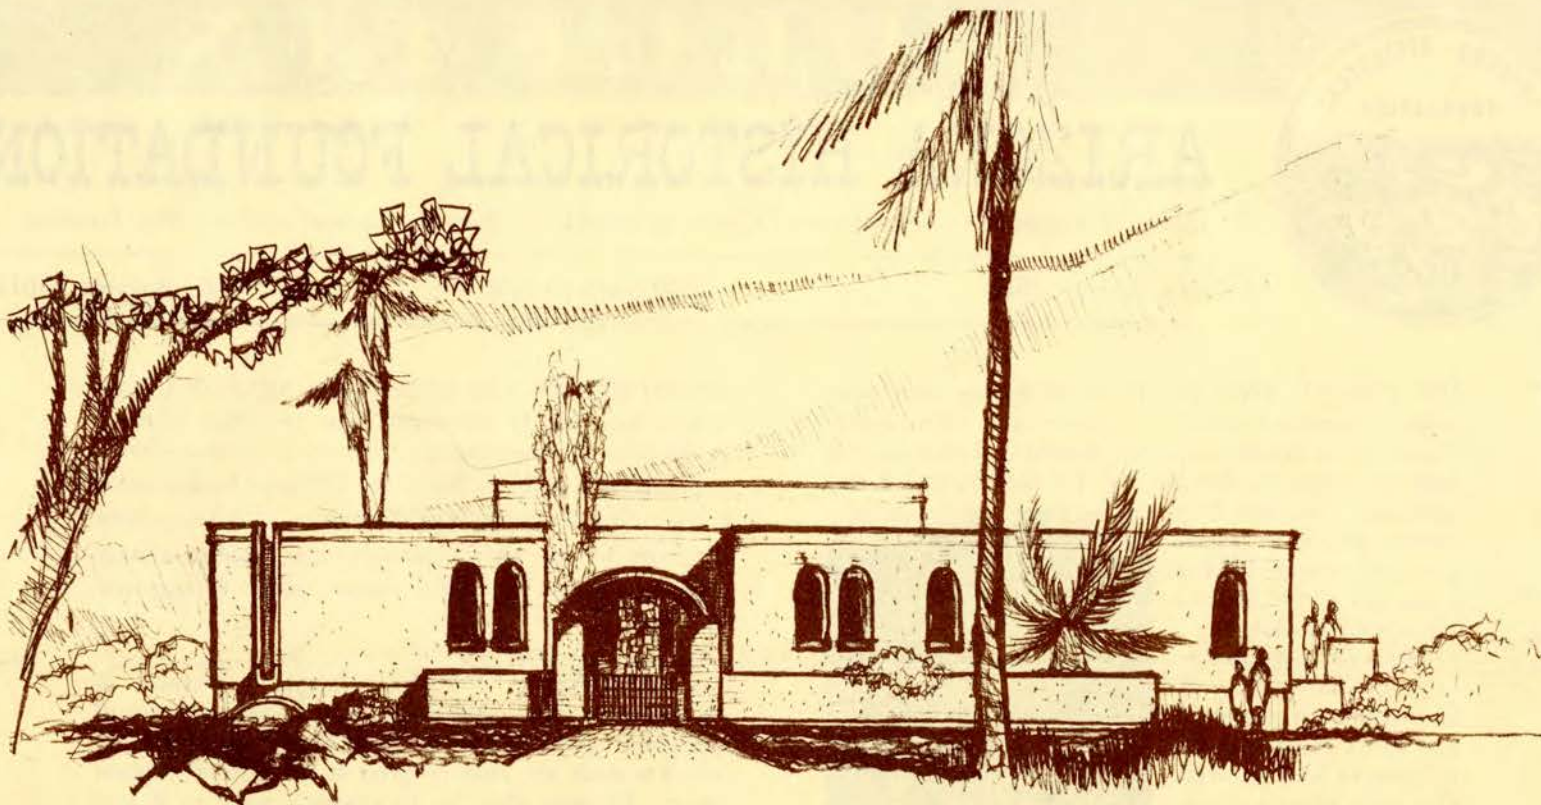

COLLEGE COURSE TO BE TAUGHT: Bert M. Fireman, Executive Vice-President of the Foundation, will be a visiting lecturer at Arizona State University the fall semester. He will teach "The History of Arizona" as a 3-hour course on Tuesday evenings at the Tempe campus. It will be a 400-g course, offering graduate credit and also open to upperclassmen. Textbook for the course will be Arizona Pageant, written by Madeline F. Paré of Tucson with the collaboration of Mr. Fireman, and published by the Foundation. This book also is being used in courses taught at the University of Arizona, Phoenix College, and several Arizona high schools.

FATHER KINO IN ARIZONA: The story of the famous Jesuit missionary's accomplishments within the present limits of Arizona in the past has been subordinated to the broader scope of his work in Sonora. Now three Arizona authors combine efforts to help us understand the role of Father Kino within present Arizona. This book includes the first English-language publication of the diary Kino wrote in 1698 on a famous journey into the Pinacate area when he first saw the mouth of the Colorado River. A portion of this work will be published in advance in The American West, with the book scheduled for publication around November 15.

THIS ARCHITECT'S RENDERING of our proposed new headquarters building and research library brings the Arizona Historical Foundation near the realization of a three-year planning program. The Board of Directors has voted acceptance of a contemplated $150,000 grant from an unnamed donor for the building. It is expected that finished building plans will be ready to let out for construction bids within sixty days.

Present plans call for a commitment not to exceed $100,000 for the building, with the remainder of the grant to be used for land acquisition, architect's fees, etc.

The Foundation has under option a lot at the northwest corner of East Monte Vista and Third Streets which will provide ample space for the two-story building and parking. A special permit has been authorized by the City Planning and Zoning Commission and the Phoenix City Council for construction of this building in the cultural heart of the city. The location is one block from the Heard Museum and close to the Phoenix City Library, Art Museum, and Theater Arts Center.

The building is planned in contemporary Southwestern motif. Walls will be of insulated slump block, with narrow recessed mission-style windows fronting Third Street. The entrance will be through an arched entry leading to a carved Spanish door.

The main floor will be devoted to an attractive lobby with adjacent library reading rooms; stacks; reference librarian's desk; card index files; and a room for classes, meetings, and study groups with space for display of historical materials. Staff quarters will include a workroom for materials being catalogued and processed; offices, and a large room for mailing and supplies. The full basement will be devoted to storage, workrooms, and space for future expansion.

A historic marriage certificate recently added to manuscript collections of the Foundation. Will C. Barnes was a famous Arizona author, soldier, forest ranger, and geographer. His bride, Edith Talbot, was a member of one of Phoenix's most prominent families.

Does your attic or an old trunk contain rare historical documents that tell of your family's part in building Arizona? If so, call the Foundation office, 277-9377, so we can assist you with preservation of this raw material from which history can be written.

This Room Is Equipped With

Edison Electric Light.

Do not attempt to light with match. Simply turn key on wall by the door.

The use of Electricity for lighting is in no way harmful to health, nor does it affect the soundness of sleep.

Special thanks to the Madsen Electric Museum for the discovery, background and history of this sign.

Signs such as this first started appearing in 1892 with the advent of the installation of electricity in hotels and public buildings. The sign was in use for approximately 20 years to inform guests and visitors on the use and safety of electrical lighting. This replica is provided by the members of the Electrical Industries Association during the celebration of Thomas Alva Edison's 126th Birthday . . . National Electric Week, February 11 - 18, 1973.
